VOL. LXXXIII—No. 142 CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., MONDAY EVENING, APRIL 5, 1954. PRICE FIVE CENTS

Principals in New Jersey Tragedy

Police said Sunday Mrs. Jean Owens, 25, shown with her five-months old daughter, clubbed her sleeping husband to death with the butt of a shotgun and then tried to commit suicide. She now is under guard in a hospital in connection with the slaying. Below is a photo of Russell Owens, 32, shown while still in service, was beaten to death as he slept. (AP Wirephoto)

Jealous Wife Kills Sleeping Husband Near Port Jervis

Mrs. Jean Owens Is Held Under Guard After Suicide Attempt; Faces Trial

Montague, N. J., April 5 (AP)—A jealous housewife killed her husband yesterday by crushing his skull with the butt of a shotgun while he slept, state police said.

The pretty, 25-year-old woman, Mrs. Jean Owens, later failed in a suicide attempt and was taken to St. Francis Hospital in nearby Port Jervis, N. Y., for treatment of deep gashes in her wrists.

State police said Mrs. Owens struck her 32-year-old husband, Russell, so hard that the shotgun snapped in two. They said a note in the woman's handwriting showed she planned doing away with her husband, herself and their baby because she feared Owens was having an affair with another woman.

The Owens' baby, however, was unharmed.

Sussex County Prosecutor Vito Concilio said a murder charge against Mrs. Owens probably would be filed today. She was expected to remain in the hospital for a few more days under guard by Port Jervis police.

Owens Quarreled

According to Trooper A. E. Zazzi, the Owens quarreled Saturday night when the husband returned home after an all-day absence and again before dawn yesterday.

Zazzi said Owens slapped his wife at the height of the second argument and then went back to sleep. The attack with the shotgun followed.

State Police Detective John Lee said Mrs. Owens' note named another woman whom she feared her husband loved. Apparently, Lee said, Mrs. Owens also planned to harm her 5-month-old daughter, Beverly Dorine, but changed her mind at the last minute.

"I just don't want my baby to live the kind of life I had to live ....." the detective quoted the note in part.

State and local police gave this version of what followed the attack on Owens:

Mrs. Owens telephoned Anton Jerger, a next-door neighbor on River Road, at 5:30 a. m., sobbing "I just killed Russ. Can you come over and help me?"

Jerger called the Owens' family physician, Dr. Allen Keniston of Port Jervis, which is about one mile north of here. While Jerger was about to make another call for an ambulance, Mrs. Owen broke in on the party line and cried, "I just slashed my wrists."

Keniston and the ambulance driver found Owens in his bed, his skull crushed. He was still alive. A broken 12 gauge shotgun lay on the floor next to the bed.

Mrs. Owens was in the living room, her wrists bleeding profusely. She had slashed them with a razor blade.

Her husband died shortly after he was found.

The Owens were married about two years ago, each for the second time, neighbors said. Owens had worked as a machinist for the R and H Machine Shop at Port Jervis.

Highland Man, 72, Dies in House Fire

Five-Room Dwelling Is Destroyed; Verdict Is 'Accidental'

William Lane, 72, burned to death when fire destroyed his five-room frame home on Chodikee Lake road at Hawley's Corners near Highland on Saturday afternoon, state police and Coroner Michael A. Galietta reported.

A verdict of accidental death has been issued by Coroner Galietta. He said death was due to second and third degree burns.

Lane, a retired town of Lloyd highway department worker, was in the habit of taking a nap each afternoon and may have been asleep when the fire broke out about 2:30 p. m., the coroner said. The aged man lived alone.

Body in Debris

Highland Fire Department volunteers Frank Tortorella and Abraham Bloomer found the body in the debris when the fire was nearly out, Fire Chief William Maynard reported.

Firemen reported they were hampered by a lack of water. They used lines from the fire engine's booster tank in an attempt to combat the flames which had already involved the structure when firemen arrived.

Cause of the fire could not be determined, Chief Maynard said.

Firemen were summoned about 2:30 p. m. by a neighbor, Mrs. Florence Werner, who said she saw flames and smoke coming from the windows of the Lane home, which is located about two miles north of Highland.

Lane is survived by two sons, George of Highland, and Oscar Lane of Marlborough, and a daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Bilyou. The body was taken to the Carpenter Funeral Home in Highland.

Heroin Is Seized

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Narcotics Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger announced today the seizure in San Francisco of "millions of dollars" worth of heroin which he said was smuggled in from Communist China. Eight persons were arrested in the raid yesterday. The commissioner said the illicit heroin seized was brought to the United States for the most part by merchant seamen who got it at a gambling emporium operated in Honk Kong by a man Anslinger names as Judah Issac Ezra, 62.

Roadblocks Are Used as Men Escape

Break at Wallkill Brings Swift Action; Steal Prison Employe's Car, Is Report

Wallkill, April 5—Roadblocks were maintained throughout New York state today in the search for three young prisoners who escaped from Wallkill Prison last night.

The three stole a prison employe's car and apparently headed upstate, prison authorities said.

Asst. Principal Keeper Charles McKendrick said they were believed to be unarmed. "But you never can tell," said a trooper at the state police barracks at Highland.

All Over State

The trooper said roadblocks were set up all over the state—with officers in many communities and prison guards working with the troopers. A 13-state alarm was sent out on the police teletype system, according to the Associated Press.

The fugitives, all of whom were serving terms for grand larceny, were listed by prison authorities as:

L. D. Leroy, 19, an American Indian, who was arrested while a resident of the Cattaraugus Reservation at Irving, in upstate Chautauqua county.

Francis R. Herman, 19, who was arrested while living at 251 Cherry street, Buffalo.

Raymond A. Bailey, 21, who was arrested while living at 304 S. McBride street, Syracuse.

Bailey was serving a term of 5 to 10 years. The others were serving up to five years.

Block Removed

McKendrick said the three prisoners apparently escaped by removing a concrete block in the wall of a cell, went to an employes' parking lot and jimmied the door of a car to drive off. The car was described as a 1950 two-door Mercury maroon sedan.

Wallkill Prison, in Ulster county, is the medium-security type.

Showdown Scheduled

Washington, April 5 (AP)—The Senate Investigations Subcommittee today scheduled for tomorrow (9:30 a. m.) a showdown meeting to determine whether Samuel P. Sears will remain as its special counsel for the inquiry into the McCarthy-army row. Sen. Mundt (R.-S. D.), who temporarily replaces Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) as chairman of the subcommittee, told reporters "surely there will be an announcement of some kind" after tomorrow's meeting. He said the purpose is to explore the pledges Sears already has given that he can and will be neutral in the hearings.

Rest for McCarthy

New York, April 5 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) said today he plans to fly to Phoenix, Ariz., later today for a few days rest and try to get rid of a virus condition. The senator has been trouble for several days by a sore throat.

Roosevelt Declares He Will Stick; Condon Irked at Report

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell has suggested the national Democratic party would best be served if two California candidates—James Roosevelt and Rep. Robert L. Condon—get out of the congressional race.

Roosevelt, who has denied charges of adultery, said early today: "I am not going to withdraw from the race."

Condon, who has protested being described as a security risk, said in a statement he strongly resents Mitchell's view.

The national chairman wrote Paul Ziffren of Los Angeles, California Democratic national committeeman, that the party is not supporting either Condon or Roosevelt, eldest son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Letter Made Available

After Mitchell's letter to Ziffren was made available last night to a reporter here, Mitchell said in Chicago he had written it but would not release it. He said that while "there was no cavass of all the members of the (Democratic national) committee," the letter represented "my own opinions as to what the national committee's action would be."

"Innocence or guilt should not be the burden of the Democratic party," Mitchell wrote. He said the two men had the right to seek election to Congress and the voters the right to elect them, but that the national committee also has the right to decide how to use funds available for helping candidates "and in these cases we will exercise our right to withhold support."

Condon declared "the Democratic national committee and Mitchell have never in any way assisted me in the past, although he (Mitchell) has made broken promises of help." Condon's administrative assistant, Paul Ward, said it had been agreed that Condon would not seek financial support from the national committee and that Mitchell in turn would not interfere in the primary contest.

Ziffren said in Los Angeles he would ask the California state central committee to meet this week to consider Mitchell's action.

Ziffren indicated he agreed with Mitchell in the Roosevelt case. He

Eisenhower To Clarify Bomb View

Knowland Reports Talk to Dwell Upon Varied Concerns; Will Discuss 'Fears'

Washington, April 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower will address the nation tonight, and was reported prepared to "clarify" questions raised at home and abroad by disclosures of the awesome power of the hydrogen bomb.

The President discussed his speech, to be carried at 8:30 p. m., by major radio and TV networks, in a forenoon conference with congressional leaders.

Afterward, Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, told reporters:

"The President will dwell on the concepts that various people have over developments in the world including the hydrogen bomb.

"The speech will certainly clarify some of the questions that are in people's mind at home and abroad."

To Expand Remarks

The White House indicated the President will expand on his March 17 news conference remarks about "fears" from without and within and calling for renewed "faith in the destiny of America." Eisenhower said then "the world is suffering from a multiplicity of fears"—including the men in the Kremlin, "what unwise investigators will do to us here at home" and the possibility of depression.

While the White House said the President plans to speak without a prepared text, he spent some time working on the talk during a weekend stay with Mrs. Eisenhower at Camp David, the presidential retreat in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains 60 miles north of here.

The President also made two

Gas Sought at Fox Hollow

Drilling for Natural Gas Begins at Fox Hollow Site

Wildcat Venture Seeks to Determine Whether Panther Dome Is Productive

Dome Gas and Oil Corporation began sinking its test well at Fox Hollow, town of Shandaken, on Saturday afternoon as an estimated 100 stockholders, property owners and others watched the operation.

The wildcat venture is the first attempt to find natural gas or oil in this vicinity and was undertaken by the corporation on the basis of geological reports showing that the Panther Mountain dome showed promise of being a gas trap.

Drilling Saturday afternoon reached a depth of about 50 feet, drillers said. According to R. M. Atwater, vice president and geologist for the corporation, the Oriskany sands—which the speculators hope will contain the natural gas in commercial quantities—are at an estimated depth of 5,500 feet beneath the surface.

The drillers are prepared to go as far as 8,000 feet down if necessary, Atwater said.

100 Feet Daily

Although much depends upon the make-up of the earth in the area, it has been estimated that the drilling operation will average roughly 100 feet a day, which

Approval Is Broad One For Section

Wicks, Wilson Measures Deal With Kingston and Town of Ulster for Thruway

Governor Thomas E. Dewey on April 1 signed bills approving in general an arterial route plan for Kingston including a spur connection with the New York State Thruway in the town of Ulster.

Bills dealing separately with the section of the system in Kingston and that in the township of Ulster were introduced by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, in the lower house and Senator Arthur H. Wicks in the Senate.

The bills were introduced in February, passed in both houses last month, and sent to the governor March 18.

The arterial route plan was presented to Mayor Frederick H. Stang here in January. It was voted general approval by the Common Council and Board of Supervisors in February.

To Study Modifications

Aside from the traffic spur which is planned to extend northwestward from a point near the intersection of Broadway and Albany avenue to the Route 28 thruway interchange, the plan, as presented called for a new approach to the Rondout creek bridge on the city side, the widening of sections of Broadway and other streets, a traffic circle at St. James street, Albany avenue and Broadway and one leading into Fair street extension.

The Common Council, in voting general approval of the plan indicated consideration of recommendations by the city planning board for modifications before any specific action is taken. The city may approve or act on the plan in whole or part.

The planning board report read at the council session noted that the city would save an estimated $83,000 in right-of-way costs through elimination of the proposed new ramp at the Rondout creek bridge, and the state has since indicated that nothing would be done on this phase until full effect of thruway travel in the area is noted.

Cost Set at $2,777,500

The arterial route system as originally presented would cost $2,777,500. The city's share of $261,000 would be for half the

Churchill Says Russia Close to H-Bomb Output

London, April 5 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill declared today the Soviet Union is "very much closer on the heels of the United States" in the development of the H-bomb than they ever were with the A-bomb.

He made the statement in a House of Commons debate in which he again refused to intervene against American H-bomb tests in the Pacific. He said the tests "increased the chance of world peace rather than the chance of world war."

Armed with non-security H-bomb information supplied by President Eisenhower himself, the 79-year-old Churchill told a tense-jam-packed House of Commons "we do not know what the Soviets are doing inside their vast lands."

He said "I shall make no prediction today," but added:

"The Soviets were well behind the U. S. even before the American hydrogen explosion of March 1, but they were very much closer on the heels of the U. S. in the development of hydrogen bombs than they ever were in atomic bombs."

Churchill took issue with former Prime Minister Clement Attlee, who told the Commons earlier that development of the H-bomb would not "in itself prevent wars."

Churchill appealed against what he called "hysteria" and said: "I must repeat that I shall not ask the United States to stop their series of experiments which will go on throughout April."

Churchill said "nothing could be less helpful to us in our problems than panic and hysteria, especially when the actual physical results are all favorable to the free world."

"I also believe we have time, though not too much time, to consider the problems which now confront us and the whole world and

Defenders Kill Thousand Troops

Rebels in Indochina Try to Widen Breach Against French

Hanoi, Indochina, April 5 (AP)—The French high command announced today the defenders of Dien Bien Phu had killed "more than 1,000" Viethminh troops trying anew to smash their way into the heart of the besieged fortress through its northwest corner.

Heavy fighting raged in that sector of the plain as the Communist-led rebels battled to widen the gap against a strong French Union counterattack supported by tanks, artillery and war planes.

The high command said the defenders plugged every breach made by the Vietminh in the northwestern defenses and the rebels left their dead dangling to the barbed wire barricades.

Thousands of the wildly screaming rebels drove into French positions in the northwest sector shortly after midnight.

After tank and artillery fire, the French Union infantry clashed in bitter hand-to-hand fighting with the Vietminh. Within two hours the counterattack had closed the breach and had driven the Vietminh back.

Morale Is High

Every message that reached the French command in Hanoi from the fortress commander, Col. Christian De Castries, recounted that his men's morale was "sky high" and that hopes of an eventual victory were mounting.

French squadrons roared over the masses of rebel troops throughout the night and early today, plastering them with 1,000-pound bombs and fresh barrages of fire bombs.

There was no mention of any attacks by the Communist-led legions in other areas around the beleaguered plain.

The rebels last night pulled their forces a quarter of a mile back from the heavily assailed

The McCarthy Story

(If you are old enough to read this, you are either for or against Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and what he stands for. Just about every American is. Yet the four-year-old McCarthy story has unfolded in such a rushing and often confusing way that few newspaper readers have been able to keep it really straight. This is first of 10 broad-picture articles on the who, what, when and where of McCarthy and McCarthyism.)

By BEM PRICE

Wheeling, W. Va., April 5 (AP)—McCarthyism was born here sometime between 8 and 9 p. m., Feb. 9, 1950. It was christened in 110 words.

In that hour Joseph R. McCarthy, junior Republican senator from Wisconsin, delivered a Lincoln Day speech before the Ohio Women's Republican Club of Wheeling.

At the end there was a burst of applause, and McCarthy shook hands all around.

Dictates Paragraph

Yost, part-time AP correspondent at Wheeling, dictated a paragraph or two from McCarthy's speech.

As Lewis began writing the brief story, he came to a figure he questioned—205 Communists in the State Department? He called Yost back and asked him to verify it.

Yost told him to hold on and he would have his reporter re-check with McCarthy. In a moment he came back on the wire and said the figure was accurate.

Shortly after 2 a. m. the 110-word story clattered over the teletypes. It began:

"Sen. McCarthy charged in an address here tonight that 205 Communist party members are 'working and shaping the policy in the State Department'."

Quoting McCarthy

The story continued, quoting McCarthy: "I have here in my hand a list of 205 that were known to the secretary of state (then Dean Acheson) as being members of the Communist party and who nevertheless are still working and shaping the policy in the State Department."

As soon as the State Department was advised of the story it said it knew of no Communists within its ranks, that it would fire any it could identify, and invited McCarthy to produce his list.

McCarthy, meanwhile, was flying to Salt Lake City. There, in a recorded radio interview on Feb. 10, he commented on his Wheeling speech:

"Last night I discussed the Communists in the State Department.

Toscanini Ends Service With Symphony Orchestra

New York, April 5 (AP)—Arturo Toscanini, whose name means the finest in music to millions, has retired as conductor of the NBC Symphony Orchestra.

The 87-year-old maestro left his post quietly and without making a special occasion of his last concert, an all-Wagner program in Carnegie Hall yesterday

NBC said he planned to leave the United States in May or June for a visit to his native Italy. It was understood he has at present made no commitments for any future concerts anywhere.

Official word of his retirement was withheld until after the final concert. NBC said this was done at the veteran conductor's request to avoid a sentimental demonstration by the audience or orchestra, formed 17 years ago especially for his use.

Without turning to the audience or a nod to anyone, Toscanini left the podium as soon as the last note of the concert's final number died.

He shut himself in his green room in Carnegie Hall and refused to return to the stage, despite lengthy cheering and applause by the audience.

NBC said he did not come out because he was too moved and had even canceled a dinner party because of the emotional strain of the occasion.

The only persons admitted to his room at the hall were his two

Three Authorities Declare Salk Polio Vaccine Is Safe

BY ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

New York, April 5 (AP)—Three top authorities today gave their positive assurance of the safety of the Salk polio vaccine, after Walter Winchell had broadcast that it "may be a killer."

The safety statements came from the U. S. Public Health Service, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who developed the vaccine. Two firms making the vaccine also declared no vaccine is used or will be used unless proved safe.

The vaccine is sheduled to be given soon to up to one million children to test its effectiveness, to learn whether it actually protects against polio this summer.

The vaccine is made of dead polio virus. Dead virus cannot cause polio. Each batch of vaccine is given triple tests, including injections into monkeys, separately by the manufacturer, the public health service, and Dr. Salk's laboratory at the University of Pittsburgh. The safety program thus calls for nine tests in all of every batch to detect any live and dangerous virus.

Winchell said on his regular Sunday night ABC network program:

"Attention all doctors and families in the United States . . . the public health service tested 10 batches of this new polio vaccine. The government's health department, I am told, found that seven of the 10 contined live—not dead—polio virus. It killed several monkeys."

Immediately the Public Health Service said in a statement that difficulties had been anticipated in converting Salk's small-scale laboratory method to full-scale commercial production.

"We have found some positives (live virus) in the lots of vaccine that we have tested," and so have other tests, it said.

When live virus is found, that batch is discarded, it said.

"The Public Health Service is confident the foundation would not release for use in this mass immunization program any vaccine which was not considered safe according to the most exacting standards that can be established for such preparations."

Said Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, foundation medical director:

"No vaccine will be used" which does not pass the triple tests.

He said four batches had "failed to pass the required tests" because "they were not manufactured" pursuant to Dr. Salk's specifications and "were therefore eliminated by the testing. This demonstrates the validity of these tests and the safety they assure to the public."

Dr. Salk declared "there is absolutely nothing to be concerned about. Nothing that contains live

Washington, April 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower will address the nation tonight, and was reported prepared to "clarify" questions raised at home and abroad by disclosures of the awesome power of the hydrogen bomb.

The President discussed his speech, to be carried at 8:30 p. m., by major radio and TV networks, in a forenoon conference with congressional leaders.

Afterward, Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, told reporters:

"The President will dwell on the concepts that various people have over developments in the world including the hydrogen bomb.

"The speech will certainly clarify some of the questions that are in people's mind at home and abroad."

To Expand Remarks

The White House indicated the President will expand on his March 17 news conference remarks about "fears" from without and within and calling for renewed "faith in the destiny of America." Eisenhower said then "the world is suffering from a multiplicity of fears"—including the men in the Kremlin, "what unwise investigators will do to us here at home" and the possibility of depression.

While the White House said the President plans to speak without a prepared text, he spent some time working on the talk during a weekend stay with Mrs. Eisenhower at Camp David, the presidential retreat in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains 60 miles north of here.

The President also made two

Drilling for Natural Gas Begins at Fox Hollow Site

Wildcat Venture Seeks to Determine Whether Panther Dome Is Productive

Dome Gas and Oil Corporation began sinking its test well at Fox Hollow, town of Shandaken, on Saturday afternoon as an estimated 100 stockholders, property owners and others watched the operation.

The wildcat venture is the first attempt to find natural gas or oil in this vicinity and was undertaken by the corporation on the basis of geological reports showing that the Panther Mountain dome showed promise of being a gas trap.

Drilling Saturday afternoon reached a depth of about 50 feet, drillers said. According to R. M. Atwater, vice president and geologist for the corporation, the Oriskany sands—which the speculators hope will contain the natural gas in commercial quantities—are at an estimated depth of 5,500 feet beneath the surface.

The drillers are prepared to go as far as 8,000 feet down if necessary, Atwater said.

100 Feet Daily

Although much depends upon the make-up of the earth in the area, it has been estimated that the drilling operation will average roughly 100 feet a day, which

Wicks, Wilson Measures Deal With Kingston and Town of Ulster for Thruway

Governor Thomas E. Dewey on April 1 signed bills approving in general an arterial route plan for Kingston including a spur connection with the New York State Thruway in the town of Ulster.

Bills dealing separately with the section of the system in Kingston and that in the township of Ulster were introduced by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, in the lower house and Senator Arthur H. Wicks in the Senate.

The bills were introduced in February, passed in both houses last month, and sent to the governor March 18.

The arterial route plan was presented to Mayor Frederick H. Stang here in January. It was voted general approval by the Common Council and Board of Supervisors in February.

To Study Modifications

Aside from the traffic spur which is planned to extend northwestward from a point near the intersection of Broadway and Albany avenue to the Route 28 thruway interchange, the plan, as presented called for a new approach to the Rondout creek bridge on the city side, the widening of sections of Broadway and other streets, a traffic circle at St. James street, Albany avenue and Broadway and one leading into Fair street extension.

The Common Council, in voting general approval of the plan indicated consideration of recommendations by the city planning board for modifications before any specific action is taken. The city may approve or act on the plan in whole or part.

The planning board report read at the council session noted that the city would save an estimated $83,000 in right-of-way costs through elimination of the proposed new ramp at the Rondout creek bridge, and the state has since indicated that nothing would be done on this phase until full effect of thruway travel in the area is noted.

Cost Set at $2,777,500

The arterial route system as originally presented would cost $2,777,500. The city's share of $261,000 would be for half the

Defenders Kill Thousand Troops

Rebels in Indochina Try to Widen Breach Against French

Hanoi, Indochina, April 5 (AP)—The French high command announced today the defenders of Dien Bien Phu had killed "more than 1,000" Viethminh troops trying anew to smash their way into the heart of the besieged fortress through its northwest corner.

Heavy fighting raged in that sector of the plain as the Communist-led rebels battled to widen the gap against a strong French Union counterattack supported by tanks, artillery and war planes.

The high command said the defenders plugged every breach made by the Vietminh in the northwestern defenses and the rebels left their dead dangling to the barbed wire barricades.

Thousands of the wildly screaming rebels drove into French positions in the northwest sector shortly after midnight.

After tank and artillery fire, the French Union infantry clashed in bitter hand-to-hand fighting with the Vietminh. Within two hours the counterattack had closed the breach and had driven the Vietminh back.

Morale Is High

Every message that reached the French command in Hanoi from the fortress commander, Col. Christian De Castries, recounted that his men's morale was "sky high" and that hopes of an eventual victory were mounting.

French squadrons roared over the masses of rebel troops throughout the night and early today, plastering them with 1,000-pound bombs and fresh barrages of fire bombs.

There was no mention of any attacks by the Communist-led legions in other areas around the beleaguered plain.

Churchill Says Russia Close to H-Bomb Output

London, April 5 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill declared today the Soviet Union is "very much closer on the heels of the United States" in the development of the H-bomb than they ever were with the A-bomb.

He made the statement in a House of Commons debate in which he again refused to intervene against American H-bomb tests in the Pacific. He said the tests "increased the chance of world peace rather than the chance of world war."

Armed with non-security H-bomb information supplied by President Eisenhower himself, the 79-year-old Churchill told a tense-jam-packed House of Commons "we do not know what the Soviets are doing inside their vast lands."

He said "I shall make no prediction today," but added:

"The Soviets were well behind the U. S. even before the American hydrogen explosion of March 1, but they were very much closer on the heels of the U. S. in the development of hydrogen bombs than they ever were in atomic bombs."

Churchill took issue with former Prime Minister Clement Attlee, who told the Commons earlier that development of the H-bomb would not "in itself prevent wars."

Churchill appealed against what he called "hysteria" and said: "I must repeat that I shall not ask the United States to stop their series of experiments which will go on throughout April."

Churchill said "nothing could be less helpful to us in our problems than panic and hysteria, especially when the actual physical results are all favorable to the free world."

"I also believe we have time, though not too much time, to consider the problems which now confront us and the whole world and

The McCarthy Story

(If you are old enough to read this, you are either for or against Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and what he stands for. Just about every American is. Yet the four-year-old McCarthy story has unfolded in such a rushing and often confusing way that few newspaper readers have been able to keep it really straight. This is first of 10 broad-picture articles on the who, what, when and where of McCarthy and McCarthyism.)

By BEM PRICE

Wheeling, W. Va., April 5 (AP)—McCarthyism was born here sometime between 8 and 9 p. m., Feb. 9, 1950. It was christened in 110 words.

In that hour Joseph R. McCarthy, junior Republican senator from Wisconsin, delivered a Lincoln Day speech before the Ohio Women's Republican Club of Wheeling.

At the end there was a burst of applause, and McCarthy shook hands all around.

Dictates Paragraph

Yost, part-time AP correspondent at Wheeling, dictated a paragraph or two from McCarthy's speech.

As Lewis began writing the brief story, he came to a figure he questioned—205 Communists in the State Department? He called Yost back and asked him to verify it.

Yost told him to hold on and he would have his reporter re-check with McCarthy. In a moment he came back on the wire and said the figure was accurate.

Shortly after 2 a. m. the 110-word story clattered over the teletypes. It began:

"Sen. McCarthy charged in an address here tonight that 205 Communist party members are 'working and shaping the policy in the State Department'."

Quoting McCarthy

The story continued, quoting McCarthy: "I have here in my hand a list of 205 that were known to the secretary of state (then Dean Acheson) as being members of the Communist party and who nevertheless are still working and shaping the policy in the State Department."

As soon as the State Department was advised of the story it said it knew of no Communists within its ranks, that it would fire any it could identify, and invited McCarthy to produce his list.

McCarthy, meanwhile, was flying to Salt Lake City. There, in a recorded radio interview on Feb. 10, he commented on his Wheeling speech:

"Last night I discussed the Communists in the State Department.

Toscanini Ends Service With Symphony Orchestra

New York, April 5 (AP)—Arturo Toscanini, whose name means the finest in music to millions, has retired as conductor of the NBC Symphony Orchestra.

The 87-year-old maestro left his post quietly and without making a special occasion of his last concert, an all-Wagner program in Carnegie Hall yesterday

NBC said he planned to leave the United States in May or June for a visit to his native Italy. It was understood he has at present made no commitments for any future concerts anywhere.

Official word of his retirement was withheld until after the final concert. NBC said this was done at the veteran conductor's request to avoid a sentimental demonstration by the audience or orchestra, formed 17 years ago especially for his use.

Without turning to the audience or a nod to anyone, Toscanini left the podium as soon as the last note of the concert's final number died.

He shut himself in his green room in Carnegie Hall and refused to return to the stage, despite lengthy cheering and applause by the audience.

NBC said he did not come out because he was too moved and had even canceled a dinner party because of the emotional strain of the occasion.

The only persons admitted to his room at the hall were his two

Three Authorities Declare Salk Polio Vaccine Is Safe

(AP Science Reporter)

New York, April 5 (AP)—Three top authorities today gave their positive assurance of the safety of the Salk polio vaccine, after Walter Winchell had broadcast that it "may be a killer."

The safety statements came from the U. S. Public Health Service, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who developed the vaccine. Two firms making the vaccine also declared no vaccine is used or will be used unless proved safe.

The vaccine is sheduled to be given soon to up to one million children to test its effectiveness, to learn whether it actually protects against polio this summer.

The vaccine is made of dead polio virus. Dead virus cannot cause polio. Each batch of vaccine is given triple tests, including injections into monkeys, separately by the manufacturer, the public health service, and Dr. Salk's laboratory at the University of Pittsburgh. The safety program thus calls for nine tests in all of every batch to detect any live and dangerous virus.

Winchell said on his regular Sunday night ABC network program:

"Attention all doctors and families in the United States . . . the public health service tested 10 batches of this new polio vaccine. The government's health department, I am told, found that seven of the 10 contined live—not dead—polio virus. It killed several monkeys."

Immediately the Public Health Service said in a statement that difficulties had been anticipated in converting Salk's small-scale laboratory method to full-scale commercial production.

"We have found some positives (live virus) in the lots of vaccine that we have tested," and so have other tests, it said.

When live virus is found, that batch is discarded, it said.

"The Public Health Service is confident the foundation would not release for use in this mass immunization program any vaccine which was not considered safe according to the most exacting standards that can be established for such preparations."

Said Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, foundation medical director:

"No vaccine will be used" which does not pass the triple tests.

He said four batches had "failed to pass the required tests" because "they were not manufactured" pursuant to Dr. Salk's specifications and "were therefore eliminated by the testing. This demonstrates the validity of these tests and the safety they assure to the public."

Dr. Salk declared "there is absolutely nothing to be concerned about. Nothing that contains live

Death of Woman Spurs Probe of Alleged Abortions

New York, April 5 (AP) — The death of a Brooklyn woman today has spurred investigation of an alleged city-wide abortion ring, Assistant District Attorney Irvin Goldsmith announced.

Between three and six illegal operations, costing $300 to $400 each, had been performed weekly, Goldsmith said.

At Bronx police headquarters three persons were questioned in the case, including a former registered nurse and an unlicensed physician.

Goldsmith identified them as Florence Cavalluzzo, 46, and Hugo Francese, 52, of the Bronx, and said they had performed the abortions.

They were arrested in Cavalluzzo's home in the thinly populated Pelham Bay section of the Bronx. Police went to the house after learning a woman was dying there from an operation that went wrong.

Propped Up in Chair

The victim was identified as Mrs. Gertrude Pinsky, 35, of Brooklyn. Goldsmith said she was found dead, but fully clothed and propped up in a chair, when policewomen entered the house.

Goldsmith said the alleged abortion mill had been under surveillance for several weeks. He said a wire-tapped telephone conversation tipped police that Mrs. Pinsky's life was in danger after an operation Saturday.

Police described Mrs. Cavalluzzo's home as an expensive-looking, brick house. She lived there with her son, Fred, about 25, who was also taken by police for questioning.

Goldsmith said Mrs. Cavalluzzo moved into her Pelham Bay home three months ago but the ring had been operating for some time before that.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 5 (AP)—A lot of irregularities in the price pattern was found today in the stock market.

The market started mixed and continued in that indecisive manner into the early afternoon.

Only occasionally did prices stray as much as a point in either direction from their previous close.

Tobaccos were higher right from the start as they were on Friday after a report that the decline in cigarette sales had halted.

Railroads were under moderate selling pressure for the second straight session.

Aircrafts were highly irregular, swinging a point or so either way.

Among higher stocks were Bethlehem Steel, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Climax Molybdenum (following a good earnings report), American Tobacco, and Reynolds Tobacco "B." Lower were Boeing, du Pont, American Can, New York Central, and United Air Lines.

Call Upon President

Although the talk was not billed as a further explanation of the hydrogen weapons tests in the Pacific, some Democrats called on the President to explain what course the nation will take if possession by the United States and Russia "neutralizes" the bomb.

Sen. Jackson (D.-Wash.), for example, said it seems to him such weapons are going to pile up without use because each side fears retaliation by the other. He criticized the administration's decision to rely on "massive retaliation" at what he said may be the expense of a buildup in conventional weapons.

"It seems to me that a new statement of foreign and military policy is necessary to correct the blunder that was made when it was announced that our defense would be based primarily on atomic retaliation," Jackson said.

Has Reduced Chance

However, Vice President Nixon told a Detroit audience Saturday night he believes the new military policy has "reduced to a minimum" the chance that Red China will send troops into the Indo-China war.

He said that by the threat of "massive retaliation" against aggressors "we may avoid any war at all." And he added that existence of the H-bomb "may in itself prove to be the greatest force for peace in world history" by convincing Russia that war would be "national suicide."

Nixon also said that the people can be "completely confident" that the problem of internal security "is being handled by people who know their business and will protect America from those who would destroy freedom, without endangering freedom in the process."

Four trucks with cranes are now active on the project and with the crews is a device which chews up the discarded limbs to facilitate disposal of them.

Mother Rescues Child 'in Time' From Room Blaze

Ronald Carney, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Carney, of 78 Lincoln street, narrowly escaped serious effects from a fire Saturday morning when he ran to an upstair room as his mother was attempting to quench the blaze in a downstair closet.

Ronald became panicky when he saw the fire and ran away and his mother poured pails of water on the flames, Mrs. Carney called to him several times to tell him to get out of the house when he finally answered from upstairs the house was filled with a dense smoke and the boy said he could not find his way down the steps.

Mrs. Carney made her way to him and brought him to safety in what firemen and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said was "just in time."

Started in Closet

The blaze, of undetermined origin started in the closet, damaged a bedroom, and the walls, furniture, and drapes in the living room.

Men and equipment from Central Station and Wicks Engine Company responded to a call shortly after 10 a. m.

Local firemen and companies in the county were called out to eight grass fires over the weekend.

Other Calls Checked

The local calls were at 1:02 p. m. Saturday for a fire along the railroad tracks between O'Neil and Cornell streets; 1:59 p. m., near 270 Third avenue, and a call at 6:30 p. m., was for an oil burner out of adjustment at 255 East Strand.

Churchill Says talk them over in their new proportions."

Public, Private Talks

Churchill mentioned only what he called public and private discussion "with our friends and allies."

Laborites are demanding that Britain take the "immediate initiative" in seeking a meeting of President Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Malenkov and Churchill to ease world fears.

Opening the H-bomb debate a few minutes earlier, former Laborite Prime Minister Clement Attlee warned that the building up of weapons of mass destruction threatens all civilization.

Attlee said "the danger there is that obviously in the use of this H-bomb weapon there is an immense advantage to the side that gets in the blow first." He said the dangers stemmed mainly from the possibility that a "fanatic" might try to kill off the world.

Attlee moved the Laborite motion calling on Churchill to take "immediate initiative" in arranging a Big Three meeting to ease world fears.

No Feeling of Panic

Amid loud cheers from fellow Socialists, Attlee said he acted "with no feeling of panic because we do not panic in this country."

But he added:

"We face today a new situation in the history of the world. Scientists working under the direction of governments have evolved a weapon which is capable of destroying the greatest cities of the world and if not destroying them at least of putting them out of action."

One of the longest lines of people ever seen outside the gates of Parliament waited for hours in rain and sunshine to try to get into Commons for the debate.

Churchill was to follow Attlee with a declaration of the government's policy and position toward the grave problem raised by development of the H-bomb.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 5 (AP)—A lot of irregularities in the price pattern was found today in the stock market.

The market started mixed and continued in that indecisive manner into the early afternoon.

Only occasionally did prices stray as much as a point in either direction from their previous close.

Tobaccos were higher right from the start as they were on Friday after a report that the decline in cigarette sales had halted.

Railroads were under moderate selling pressure for the second straight session.

Aircrafts were highly irregular, swinging a point or so either way.

Among higher stocks were Bethlehem Steel, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Climax Molybdenum (following a good earnings report), American Tobacco, and Reynolds Tobacco "B." Lower were Boeing, du Pont, American Can, New York Central, and United Air Lines.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 63 Wall street, New York city; branch office 41 John street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Contract Is Signed

New York, April 5 (AP)—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and former titleholder Ezzard Charles today signed official contracts for their 15-round title bout at Yankee Stadium, June 16.

The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness estimates that about 750,000 Americans now alive will become blind before they die.

Death of Woman Spurs Probe of Alleged Abortions

New York, April 5 (AP) — The death of a Brooklyn woman today has spurred investigation of an alleged city-wide abortion ring, Assistant District Attorney Irvin Goldsmith announced.

Between three and six illegal operations, costing $300 to $400 each, had been performed weekly, Goldsmith said.

At Bronx police headquarters three persons were questioned in the case, including a former registered nurse and an unlicensed physician.

Goldsmith identified them as Florence Cavalluzzo, 46, and Hugo Francese, 52, of the Bronx, and said they had performed the abortions.

They were arrested in Cavalluzzo's home in the thinly populated Pelham Bay section of the Bronx. Police went to the house after learning a woman was dying there from an operation that went wrong.

Propped Up in Chair

The victim was identified as Mrs. Gertrude Pinsky, 35, of Brooklyn. Goldsmith said she was found dead, but fully clothed and propped up in a chair, when policewomen entered the house.

Goldsmith said the alleged abortion mill had been under surveillance for several weeks. He said a wire-tapped telephone conversation tipped police that Mrs. Pinsky's life was in danger after an operation Saturday.

Police described Mrs. Cavalluzzo's home as an expensive-looking, brick house. She lived there with her son, Fred, about 25, who was also taken by police for questioning.

Goldsmith said Mrs. Cavalluzzo moved into her Pelham Bay home three months ago but the ring had been operating for some time before that.

Call Upon President

Although the talk was not billed as a further explanation of the hydrogen weapons tests in the Pacific, some Democrats called on the President to explain what course the nation will take if possession by the United States and Russia "neutralizes" the bomb.

Sen. Jackson (D.-Wash.), for example, said it seems to him such weapons are going to pile up without use because each side fears retaliation by the other. He criticized the administration's decision to rely on "massive retaliation" at what he said may be the expense of a buildup in conventional weapons.

"It seems to me that a new statement of foreign and military policy is necessary to correct the blunder that was made when it was announced that our defense would be based primarily on atomic retaliation," Jackson said.

Has Reduced Chance

However, Vice President Nixon told a Detroit audience Saturday night he believes the new military policy has "reduced to a minimum" the chance that Red China will send troops into the Indo-China war.

He said that by the threat of "massive retaliation" against aggressors "we may avoid any war at all." And he added that existence of the H-bomb "may in itself prove to be the greatest force for peace in world history" by convincing Russia that war would be "national suicide."

Nixon also said that the people can be "completely confident" that the problem of internal security "is being handled by people who know their business and will protect America from those who would destroy freedom, without endangering freedom in the process."

Mother Rescues Child 'in Time' From Room Blaze

Ronald Carney, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Carney, of 78 Lincoln street, narrowly escaped serious effects from a fire Saturday morning when he ran to an upstair room as his mother was attempting to quench the blaze in a downstair closet.

Ronald became panicky when he saw the fire and ran away and his mother poured pails of water on the flames, Mrs. Carney called to him several times to tell him to get out of the house when he finally answered from upstairs the house was filled with a dense smoke and the boy said he could not find his way down the steps.

Mrs. Carney made her way to him and brought him to safety in what firemen and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said was "just in time."

The blaze, of undetermined origin started in the closet, damaged a bedroom, and the walls, furniture, and drapes in the living room.

Men and equipment from Central Station and Wicks Engine Company responded to a call shortly after 10 a. m.

Local firemen and companies in the county were called out to eight grass fires over the weekend.

Former College Ace Near Death After Car Crash

Pine Bluff, Ark., April 5 (AP)—Junius Kellogg, 6 foot 8 member of the Harlem Globetrotters B team, lay near death today after suffering a severed spinal column and other injuries in a highway accident near here.

Kellogg, former Manhattan College basketball star, was among five Negro professional basketball players injured when their car blew a tire and overturned Friday night 16 miles north of Pine Bluff.

Kellogg's attending physician, who asked that his name not be used, said the product of Portsmouth, Va., is paralyzed except for slight movement in one arm. The doctor said Kellogg's condition is "not good" and he held little hope for his recovery. Kellogg also suffered a dislocated vertebra in his neck.

Boyd Buie, also a member of the touring Globetrotters second team, is hospitalized with a hip injury but his condition is good.

As a member of the Manhattan College team in 1951, Kellogg started the investigation which uncovered the "fix" scandals.

Kellogg went to New York District Attorney Frank Hogan and said gamblers had asked him to shave points in a college game. The subsequent probe disclosed that a score of college players had been approached and had carried out various plots to fix games.

Three other players suffered minor injuries and were released from the hospital yesterday.

About a third of the area of the United States still is classified as forest.

BURSITIS

"Anyone can do it," the man said. So you painted the living room walls and ceiling yourself. It looked fine, too, but next day you had a painful shoulder that just about ruined all your pride of achievement. You decided, perhaps, that you weren't made for that kind of work, and, in a way, you were right. It's one of the many troubles we made for ourselves when we decided to get up on our hind legs and use our front paws for hands.

Hooked up between your shoulder blade and the big bone of the upper arm is a little muscle with a job that is sometimes too big for it. Its long name—supraspinatus—isn't much help when it has to work all day keeping the arm bone in its socket against the pull of gravity. Holding the arms up and out puts a constant strain on the muscle and its tendon. And every arm movement we make pinches the tendon between the shoulder blade and arm bone.

So you see, it wasn't surprising that the unaccustomed work of painting gave you a painful shoulder. Acute bursitis usually cures itself quickly, but it can develop into a condition that disables its victims for months or years. We tend to baby the sore shoulder, when the best cure is to keep it moving. Lack of motion may cause adhesions to form, and then the shoulder becomes practically frozen in its socket.

Of course, every painful shoulder does not mean bursitis. The safe course is consult your doctor if shoulder pain does not clear up quickly.

As an exercise for bursitis doctors frequently suggest bending over with the arm relaxed and then swinging it like a pendulum from front to back, side to side, and round and round. You can do this in a bending position even though, standing straight, you couldn't move the arm because of the pain. You may feel foolish, but in a few weeks your shoulder will probably be as good as new.

Nyack School Burns

Nyack, April 5 (AP)—Fire razed the old Central Nyack grammar school yesterday, causing an estimated $50,000 loss. No one was in the building, being used for kindergarten and first grade classes only. Police said an overheated furnace may have caused the blaze. A high wind hampered the attempts of four community fire companies to save the building, erected in 1910.

McCarthy Greets Police Hosts

Senator Joseph McCarthy, controversial Wisconsin Republican, waves to his audience of more than 6,000 policemen at New York City police department's 36th annual communion breakfast (Apr. 4). Sen. McCarthy pledged himself to continue the fight against communism in his speech. On dais also are Francis Cardinal Spellman, head bowed, and right is Patrolman Timothy J. Finn, president of Holy Name Society which sponsored the event. Between the two, in background, is Mons. Joseph A. McCaffrey, retiring police department chaplain. (AP Wirephoto)

The McCarthy Story

I stated I had the names of 57 card-carrying members of the State Department."

Fifty-seven or 205? A stirred nation fastened its eyes on the fast-moving senator and awaited his return to Washington.

Until Feb. 10, 1950, McCarthy had been known on Capitol Hill as a man who fought in 1947 to end rationing on sugar for industrial purposes, as a vigorous opponent of the Truman administration's public housing and as the man who denounced American investigators in the war crimes trial of the German storm troopers accused of shooting down 150 American prisoners and 100 Belgians at Malmedy Crossroads in 1944.

In Banner Headlines

Now McCarthy was in the banner headlines.

Soon he was to deny on the Senate floor, and later in a book and before a Senate committee, that he used the figure 205 at Wheeling.

Two radio men, James K. Whitaker and Paul A. Myers, both of station WWVA at Wheeling, were to swear that he did.

Whitaker and Myers signed affidavits that on Feb. 10, after reading a newspaper account of McCarthy's speech, they compared a recording used in a delayed broadcast with the script of the speech McCarthy had delivered to the station.

They attested that McCarthy used the 205 figure and neither could recall any mention of the figure 57. They said McCarthy read the script, but McCarthy later said in a Senate speech that he did not. Soon after, the tape was erased for re-use.

Frank Desmond, reporter for the Intelligencer, at first said he covered the McCarthy speech and would stick by what he had written—205.

Later, in a deposition taken in a law suit brought by McCarthy against Sen. William Benton, Desmond testified that since he had an advance copy of the speech he hadn't followed the words closely and couldn't be sure what McCarthy actually said.

McCarthy has written in his book, "McCarthyism, the Fight for America", that before he began his attack on what he called the "Communist conspiracy," he went off into the Arizona hills to do some soul searching and thinking.

Had to Be Specific

He wrote that he concluded it did no good to attack communism in general; that the attacks had to be specific. He related that he thought of his buddies in the marines and thought their efforts in World War 2 were being scuttled.

After communing with himself, he wrote, he decided that it did little good to argue about changing what he called "our suicidal foreign policy so long as the men in charge of shaping that policy were in the camp of the enemy."

It was after this deliberation, he said, that he decided to launch his public fight at Wheeling.

Former Republican Congressman Francis J. Love and Tom Sweeney, now a candidate for the Republican nomination to the Senate, were at the Wheeling Airport to greet McCarthy. So was reporter Desmond.

In an interview this March 19 Love recalled the event.

'McCarthy talked on the way to town about whether to make a typical Lincoln Day speech or to talk on Communists in government," Love said. "We advised him to talk on Communists in government."

Then Love, a member of Congress in 1947-'48, added: "He didn't know what speech he was going to make when he arrived and when he left he didn't realize the impact of his speech—at least that is my impression."

But the speech, whatever the figures, had been made. People cocked an ear in McCarthy's direction.

The nation had grounds for concern about the issue. Since the end of World War II, the threat of communism from without and within seemingly had grown almost daily.

Relations Determined

Relations with Russia, a war ally, had deteriorated steadily.

To save Berlin from a Communist blockade the United States had resorted to a tremendously expensive air lift.

The United States had poured out billions of dollars in foreign aid to prevent the economic chaos on which communism thrives.

It had sent one of its best generals to Greece to prevent Communist seizure of that country.

The Communists had succeeded in taking over China. One result was bitter attacks on U. S. foreign policy in the Far East.

At home, three Americans who said they had joined, then abandoned, the Communist Party—Whittaker Chambers, Louis Budenz and Elizabeth Bentley—testified in public that they knew of subversion and espionage in high places.

Miss Bentley had testified a spy ring led right into the White House to Lauchlin Currie who had been administrative assistant to President Roosevelt. Currie denied all under oath.

Eleven Communists had been put on trial in New York. The nation had been shocked by the cases of Klaus Fuchs, Judith Coplen, William Remington, Gerhart Eisler.

McCarthy had had nothing to do with any of these domestic cases, nor with the case of Alger Hiss, which climaxed the stories of highly placed Communist links before McCarthy moved into the Red-hunting scene.

Hiss had held important positions in the State Department, and just 19 days before McCarthy made his Wheeling speech Hiss had been convicted on two counts of perjury.

He had been sentenced to 5 years' imprisonment but, maintaining that he was innocent, had appealed.

A few hours later Secretary of State Acheson said of Hiss, a longtime friend: "I do not intend to turn my back on Alger Hiss." He told a news conference he was not commenting on the legal aspects of the case. He referred questioners to a Biblical passage urging compassion.

Nonetheless Acheson's statement created an immediate sensation.

The Hiss story began Aug. 3, when Chambers, then a 30,000-a-year magazine editor, appeared before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Chambers testified — and Hiss denied—that the brilliant young lawyer had been a member of the Communist party and in 1937 and 1938 had given him secret documents for relay to Russia.

Two Supreme Court justices, Felix Frankfurter and Stanley Reed, testified for Hiss as character witnesses some time later.

Worked in Washington

Hiss, a Harvard law graduate, went to work in Washington in 1933 and in the State Department in 1936. He rose steadily and served as executive secretary of the Dumbarton Oaks conference, which laid the foundation for the United Nations. He was secretary-general of the 1945 San Francisco conference at which the United Nations charter was drafted, a member of the small group of advisers and aides who accompanied President Roosevelt to the Yalta conference.

Hiss was convicted of lying when he said he had never given documents to Chambers and of lying when he said he had had no contacts with Chambers after Jan. 1, 1937.

If was during the Hiss trials that Chambers produced his famous "pumpkin papers." These were microfilms he had concealed in pumpkins on his Maryland farm. They involved State Department documents, some of which were identified as being in Hiss' handwriting.

But if the Hiss trial and conviction shocked the nation, the arrest of Klaus Fuchs in England Feb. 3, 1950—six days before McCarthy spoke—rocked it. Fuchs, an atomic scientist, was charged (and later convicted) of passing atomic secrets to the Russians. He had worked in American atomic plants and had access to top secrets.

At the time McCarthy spoke, in Wheeling, William Remington, a Department of Commerce economist, also named by Miss Bentley, had been tried and convicted of perjury in denying Communist affiliations. A second trial for Remington, won on appeal, was pending. He later was convicted again.

Judith Coplon, a young woman employe of the Justice Department, had been arrested in March, 1949, on charges of passing documents to a Russian friend. She was convicted, but a new trial was granted and she was freed on the grounds that some of the government's wire-tap evidence was inadmissible.

Eisler, identified by Budenz as one of the top international Communist officials in the U. S., had refused to be sworn before the House Un-American Activities Committee. He was cited for contempt of Congress, but before he could be tried he smuggled himself out of the country. He turned up in East Germany as a top Communist official.

Loyalty Review Boards

In the background along with all this, too, were the activities of the Loyalty Review Boards set up by President Truman to weed out Communists and fellow travelers.

It was into these winds of public opinion, stirred by events in which he had played no part, that McCarthy cast his figures. Were there 205 Communists in the State Department, or 57 or even one? could McCarthy produce evidence to convict any?

From these seeds of doubt came the political force now known as "McCarthyism."

What is the definition of this new "ism"?

It has a different meaning to almost everyone, but McCarthy himself has said "McCarthyism means Americanism that is ready to stand up and fight communism."

He has called it, too, "the fight for America."

Former President Truman defined McCarthyism as the "corruption of truth, the abandonment of our historical devotion to fair play * * * the abandonment of the due process of law."

Adlai Stevenson, former governor of Illinois and Democratic presidential candidate in 1952, described McCarthyism in 1951 as "a hysterical form of putrid slander."

At the time McCarthy spoke, in Wheeling, William Remington, a Department of Commerce economist, also named by Miss Bentley, had been tried and convicted of perjury in denying Communist affiliations. A second trial for Remington, won on appeal, was pending. He later was convicted again.

Judith Coplon, a young woman employe of the Justice Department, had been arrested in March, 1949, on charges of passing documents to a Russian friend. She was convicted, but a new trial was granted and she was freed on the grounds that some of the government's wire-tap evidence was inadmissible.

Eisler, identified by Budenz as one of the top international Communist officials in the U. S., had refused to be sworn before the House Un-American Activities Committee. He was cited for contempt of Congress, but before he could be tried he smuggled himself out of the country. He turned up in East Germany as a top Communist official.

Loyalty Review Boards

In the background along with all this, too, were the activities of the Loyalty Review Boards set up by President Truman to weed out Communists and fellow travelers.

It was into these winds of public opinion, stirred by events in which he had played no part, that McCarthy cast his figures. Were there 205 Communists in the State Department, or 57 or even one? could McCarthy produce evidence to convict any?

From these seeds of doubt came the political force now known as "McCarthyism."

What is the definition of this new "ism"?

It has a different meaning to almost everyone, but McCarthy himself has said "McCarthyism means Americanism that is ready to stand up and fight communism."

He has called it, too, "the fight for America."

Former President Truman defined McCarthyism as the "corruption of truth, the abandonment of our historical devotion to fair play * * * the abandonment of the due process of law."

Adlai Stevenson, former governor of Illinois and Democratic presidential candidate in 1952, described McCarthyism in 1951 as "a hysterical form of putrid slander."

TESTING ATOM'S POWER

The other day a British newspaper, ruefully noting the troubles generated by an H-bomb experiment that got somewhat out of hand, commented:

"If this sort of thing isn't stopped, there may not be enough world left to fight World War III in."

An exaggeration, yes, but one with a bigger core of truth, than many have.

For instance, from Tokyo we have a report that U. S. authorities have urged that all fish taken from a specified area of the Pacific be examined for radioactive contamination. The concern in Japan, which uses fish over meat as a diet staple by a ratio of 10 to 1, is considerable.

Most of Japan's fish come from waters off Siberia and Korea, but the country's fishermen do range out into the mid-Pacific, as witness the 23 who fell victim to radioactive ash from the recent bomb explosion.

With an expanding population, and no hope of building up meat supplies, it is perhaps inevitable that Japanese fishing boats should work eastward in increasing numbers.

The thought that we may have contaminated any substantial portion of a useful food supply for a country trying so hard to get back on a solid economic footing ought to give us real pause.

To an explosion of such force as the March 1 blast, the vast reaches of the Pacific do not evidently afford the safety margin we might imagine. The world continues to shrink. It is now a serious question—one we hope Washington officials are asking themselves—whether there is any place on the globe where we may hereafter safely conduct hydrogen bomb experiments.

In letting loose a blast which exceeded scientific expectations by three or four times, we could have damaged the food source of a struggling island nation. Future promised blasts are supposed to be considerably more severe. Knowing now what it might do, dare we touch them off?

SOMEBODY ALWAYS KNOWS

In optimistic moments in the spring a man can lean on his rake and figure the future of mankind is safe.

Though all the books in all the libraries burn in some giant conflagration, though every written word be chewed to nothingness by weevils, we shall go on as unwaveringly as the sun.

For no matter what knowledge is needed there are two great pools which never can be dipped dry. Whatever the question, there is either a neighbor or someone down at the shop who knows the answer.

Let the warm spring breezes caress the wrinkles from your brow as you rake-lean. Let the perils, internal and external, leach from your soul.

Need to sharpen a star drill? Must you discipline your child? Your car not running properly?

Open that inexhaustible encyclopedia. Your friends will draw diagrams on tablecloths, write phone numbers on match books. It is hard to shut them up.

Back to raking, fellow, all's right with the world.

That man who is so busy raking his yard may be interested in keeping his place neat or he may merely be preparing a place where he can practice his putting.

DODGE RETIRES

Joseph M. Dodge, whose resignation as director of the budget will become effective on April 15, will be missed in Washington. President Eisenhower has accepted his resignation with reluctance. Dodge was the first man appointed by President Eisenhower when he came to office.

Dodge, like so many other Eisenhower appointees, agreed to take the job on a temporary basis only. In his letter of resignation to the President he pointed out that a great part of his time for the last eleven years has been devoted to public service. He will return to his post as chairman of the board of a Detroit bank.

Americans are frequently critical of those in public service and too often fail to show their appreciation to those who perform vital government jobs, often at salaries which represent real sacrifices. It is unfortunate that the pressure of business had made Dodge's resignation necessary. Since it has, however, he is entitled to the gratitude of his countrymen.

'These Days'

"CHOPPING BOCK" ASSIGNMENT

Senator Karl Mundt sure got himself what he calls a "chopping block" assignment when he stepped into the investigation as to who used rough language on whom between the McCarthy staff and the Stevens staff. The search for a favorably known lawyer of even seeming impartiality has been difficult because who wants to run an inquiry into childishness? The first lists of lawyers contained truly distinguished names, but each turned down the assignment. A counsel, Samuel Sears, has now been found who is willing to bring this dispute to a conclusion.

Mundt, who has been in the thick of it all, in his weekly report to his constituents, summarizes his conclusions as follows:

". . . (1) Involved here is no high crime against the Government like treason; no allegations of disloyalty against any of the parties concerned; no acts of corruption punishable by law. Yet, neither the deep freeze and mink coat disclosures; the charges of graft in the procurement and use of Government oil tankers; the 5 per cent commission agents; or the gift of American monetary plates to the Communists (in all of which investigations I participated) remotely rivaled the current affair in the attention being devoted by the newspapers and the radio. Only the Hiss Case (in which I also served as Acting Chairman)—exceeded this one in news coverage and editorial interest. (2) Involved here at worst are misconduct and misrepresentation by one or more individuals connected with the Army or the Senate Committee or both but unless perjury is subsequently committed in sworn testimony before our Committee no crime punishable by law is now charged or indicated. (3) Involved here at best are misunderstandings and mistakes by one or more individuals connected with the Army or the Senate Committee or both which have interfered with the orderly work of a growing number of officials both in the Army and in Congress."

Although Senator Mundt makes the point that no matter what was said among the various gentlemen involved in this controversy, no one actually yielded to pressure or blackmail, the fact is that the investigations have been stopped. In effect, all the members of the Committee, including Senator Joe McCarthy, have yielded to the pressure that the McCarthy investigations into the infiltration of Government departments by Communists be stopped. They have stopped.

This is undoubtedly satisfactory to those who object to investigations, particularly of themselves and their friends. Perhaps their hope is that McCarthy may be thwarted altogether, and that the investigations will not proceed.

In introducing this discussion in his weekly report, Senator Karl Mundt said:

"Whether it is because of the great degree to which global Communism has affected all our lives, or because of the controversial nature of McCarthy's operations, or because so many Americans have had relatives in the Army these past 20 years—or for some as yet undisclosed reason or cause—it is still difficult to understand the almost feverish interest of reporters and publications in our deliberations."

The interest is normal. It is not in the incident of the Cohn-Adams discussions. It is not in the harassed David Schine. It is in Joe McCarthy. Joe is what in radio they call a controversial person—one whose every word and action starts a controversy. It is true about anyone who comes near him. For instance, William F. Buckley, Jr., writes a book on "McCarthy and His Enemies," whereupon the Women's National Republican Club of New York withdraws an invitation for him to address them.

Apparently in this free land, orthodoxy requires non-association with McCarthy, although I do recall the Liberals complaining that McCarthy was guilty of imposing conformity.

Often controversies are over nothing particularly important, like, for instance, that one which seems to burn in some men's souls as to whether Bacon or someone else wrote Shakespeare because Shakespeare could not have written what he did write all by himself. What difference does it really make? Or, it is like the theologians who grow furious over the years of Joshua, some saying, as though they really knew, that he lived 200 years before Moses, and that therefore he could not have succeeded Moses, who might not have existed anyhow.

Joe McCarthy just is controversial and everything he does excites interest, enthusiasm and anger. And the reporters thrive on it, whether it is important or only adolescent.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

FLUORINE IN DRINKING WATER

Several years ago, in a certain district in Texas, it was found that the great majority of men, women and children were almost entirely free of tooth decay. In another district, many of the inhabitants had mottled teeth. Investigation showed that the cases of mottled teeth were caused by the same chemical, fluorine, that prevented the tooth decay. In the case of the mottled teeth, there was too high a percentage of fluorine present in the drinking water.

About the time the dental profession discovered this fact, many medical and dental officers of various cities were having controversies as to whether it was best to use fluorine to prevent decay of teeth even if it caused mottling in some cases. Unfortunately, this controversy reached great proportions and caused much violent disturbances in educational institutions. Now the members are about equally divided as to whether or not to have their drinking water treated with fluorine (fluoride).

From what can be learned from our dentists, the whole matter can be solved by watching the experiments being carried on in various cities and towns. In Toronto, Canada, the city council recently refused to treat the water of Lake Ontario with fluorine while a neighboring town passed a by-law to have their drinking water "fluorinated."

What is the explanation of a condition where the dental profession is divided about fluorination? Apparently the whole matter rests upon the percentage of fluorine in the water; dentists and municipal boards of health are not of one mind as to what is the correct percentage.

In general, from the reports in medical and dental journals, the majority of physicians and dentists are in favor of using fluorine of a low percentage while others apparently do not want to run the risk of having the public develop mottled teeth.

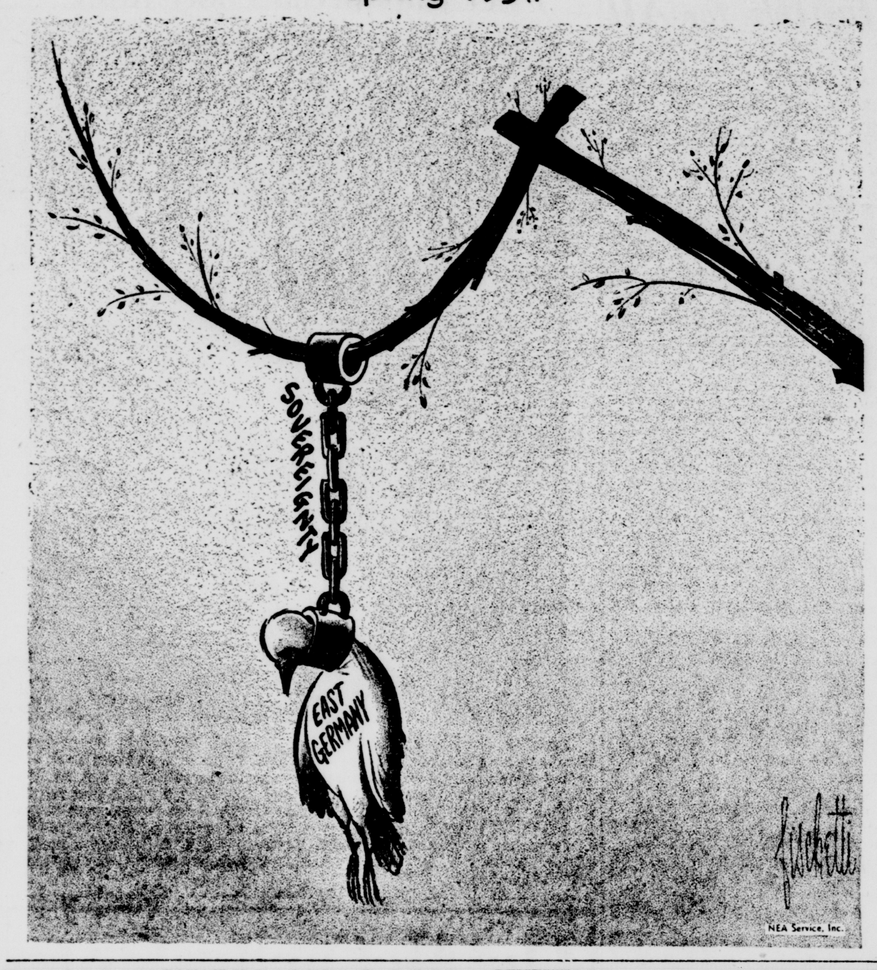

Until the controversy is finally settled, I am not mentioning at this time what is considered the right percentage of fluorine to use to prevent decay of teeth and at the same time prevent the disfiguration of mottled teeth. Only proper scientific investigation will give us the answer to this question.

The Navy hopes its startling new vertical take-off planes—known as VTO's—will overcome one of the most serious handicaps of jet aircraft. This is the difficulty of getting large formations into the air. Jets are so fast, fly so high, and consume so much fuel that it takes considerable planning and expert flying to make a rendezvous after conventional take-off and before they fly on a big mission, requiring massed airpower.

A number of VTO planes, however, can be launched simultaneously from a limited area, like an aircraft carrier deck or a short runway. Also, the VTO's can hover over a particular spot. One plane or one formation can thus just hang in the air at a rendezvous point, waiting for the others to assemble.

Veteran's Administration education officials hope Congress will make a quick change in the GI bill to benefit a million Korean vets who were discharged before Aug. 20, 1952. Under present laws these vets have until Aug. 20, 1954, to get started on some school or training program. After this date they will lose their rights.

VA officials point out that if the law is changed to extend this cut-off date just a few months, it will permit the Korean vets to enroll for the fall term in schools and colleges. Several bills have been introduced in Congress to change the date and pressure is being applied to have them enacted before early adjournment.

William White, president of the embattled New York Central R. R., which Robert R. Young is trying to take over, admits that discourtesy among employes who do business with the public is one of the basic causes for bad passenger business. Ever since he took over in 1952, Mr. White says he has been trying to improve this situation.

One discourtesy which has irritated Mr. White the most is the habit of ticket sellers and information people of not looking customers straight in the eye.

"They'll answer your question and sell you a ticket, but they always keep looking some place else. This inevitably makes the customer angry," says Mr. White. He rides his road considerably, and frequently takes an employe to task for some rudeness.

John G. Adams, the Army's chief legal counsel, has discovered a new way to dodge embarrassing questions. Mr. Adams is a key figure in the Senate special investigating committee's inquiry into charges that Senator McCarthy's chief counsel, Roy Cohn, tried to pressure the Army into giving preferential treatment to his former associate, G. David Schine.

When Mr. Adams stuck his head into the Pentagon pressroom the other day, reporters surrounded him. "Mr. Adams, will you submit to a lie detector test?" one of them asked.

Mr. Adams slapped his leg, laughed, then let out a big grunt.

"Does that big grunt mean you would or would not submit?" the reporter persisted.

With that Mr. Adams waved goodby and disappeared down the hall, grunting.

Questions in Theobald Book Might Mean Truth Is Coming Out

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 5—The truth is coming out at last about the responsibility for the attack on Pear Harbor on December 7, 1941 when 3,303 Americans were killed and 1,272 wounded.

Whether all the facts have as yet been revealed by Rear Admiral Theobald, USN (ret.), in his new book to which Fleet Admiral Halsey and Admiral Kimmel have written corroborative forewords or whether there will be further congressional inquiries, the information now being presented will undoubtedly force further disclosures from all persons now available for questioning.

Did the late President Roosevelt deliberately expose the American fleet to attack at Pearl Harbor, refusing twice to take the advice of Admiral Richardson, commander of the fleet, and order the battleships away from that vulnerable spot? Did Mr. Roosevelt purposely withhold vital information from Admiral Kimmel who succeeded Admiral Richardson at Pearl Harbor?

These are not the only questions which the Theobald book emphasizes, for the texts of all the pertinent messages are published and the reader is told flatly that the United States government knew many days in advance what the Japanese were planning because our code experts had been deciphering the Japanese messages to the Consul at Honolulu for several weeks before the attack.

Why were Admiral Kimmel and General Short deprived of the information about these intercepted messages? Who ordered them to be kept in ignorance of the fact that the Japanese government was asking its Consul for regular weekly reports on the position of the ships at Pearl Harbor?

Certain highly important November dispatches, declares Admiral Theobald, were not decoded in Washington until December 4 and 5. "Nevertheless," he says, "that still gave plenty of time to relay the significant revelations of this full set of Tokyo-Honolulu dispatches to the Hawaiian commanders.

"Not the slightest hint of all this was given to Admiral Kimmel or General Short. Why was such irrefutable evidence of the coming attack so withheld? Why did Washington contribute so completely to the surprise feature of the attack? There can be only one answer—because President Roosevelt wanted it that way."

The author rationalizes that both General Marshall and Admiral Stark, commanders of the army and navy respectively in Washington, were too experienced as military men to forego sending these messages on to Hawaii and assumes that they had positive orders from Mr. Roosevelt not to dispatch such messages. The trans-Pacific telephone from Washington to Pearl Harbor could have been used, it is added, and there was time for speedy message transmission but, instead, the slowest means were selected—and the messages got to Hawaii six hours after the attack had come.

Continuing, Admiral Theobald says it was unprecedented for the heads of the army and navy to act as they did. He writes:

"Never before in recorded history has a field commander been denied information that his country would be at war in a matter of hours, and that everything pointed to a surprise attack upon his forces shortly after sunrise. No naval officer, on his own initiative would every make such a decision as Admiral Stark did."

There have been eight investigations of the Pearl Harbor tragedy but all of them were conducted under the auspices of the Democratic administration. Excuses have been advanced that a general "alert" was given several days before to General Short and everybody else in the Pacific but no explanation has ever been produced as to why, when General Short replied with a message interpreting the meaning of that alert as related only to internal sabotage at Hawaii, he was allowed by his superiors in Washington to operate under that illusion for several days when Washington's own information pointed to an attack on Pearl Harbor itself.

Perhaps the most pertinent quotation bearing on all this is that taken by Admiral Theobald from the notation on November 25, 1941, in the diary of the late Henry L. Stimson, then secretary of war, who wrote:

"The question was how we should maneuver them (the Japanese) into position of firing the first shot without allowing too much danger to ourselves. It was a difficult proposition."

Admiral Theobald says the motive of President Roosevelt was to line up solid support inside the United States for a war against Japan in order that American military strength might be thrown decisively into the war against Hitler. This is the only rational explanation which the author can think of as to why the attack on Pearl Harbor, as he sees it, was practically "invited."

Fleet Admiral Halsey, in his foreword to the Theobald book, calls Admiral Kimmel and General Short "outstanding military martyrs" and says they "were thrown to the wolves as scapegoats for something over which they had no control."

The book is copyrighted by the Kevin-Adair Company, New York, and will be published April 21.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

Take a Letter, Miss Schrank

Governor Charles E. Jones
State House
Tallahassee, Florida

Dear Mr. Governor:

I'd like to warn you about a crisis brewing in Madrid which just possibly could lose you your job.

To give it to you fast: Generalissimo Franco is demanding that the English give Gibraltar back to Spain.

How does this concern you? In this way: When Great Britain took possession of Gibraltar in 1783, is was part of an even-Steven swap, spelled out in detail in a treaty signed at Versailles. Spain handed over the big rock at the mouth of the Mediterranean. Britain, in return, deeded to Spain the island of Minorca, and, to sweeten the pot, threw in a hunk of swamp and sand known as Florida.

The facts concerning this transaction are documented in a recent issue of the famous English weekly, "The Economist," which goes on to say that if one half of the Versailles Treaty was invalid, as Franco claims, then so was the other half. Spain, therefore, had no right to sell Florida to the United States in 1819 for $5,000,000. In all fairness, the magazine concludes, before Franco further presses his claim to Gibraltar, it is incumbent on him to buy back Florida and return it to the English.

Right now, Mr. Governor, this suggestion is nothing to brood about. I doubt whether there's enough money in the Spanish Treasury to purchase the 200-foot waterfront plot my friend Danny Arnstein owns on Collins Avenue in Miami Beach.

But tomorrow? Well, that's something else again. The Spanish Treasury figures to get a lot more solvent in the near fiscal future, what with our spending $700,000,000 on Iberian air bases.

I don't know what you can do about the possible buy-back of Florida, sir, but I just thought you ought to be warned.

Yours, etc.
BILLY ROSE

Dr. George Bardaman
Denver University
Denver, Colo.

My Dear Sir:

According to a press dispatch the other day, George Murch, one of your students in "speed reading," recently set a new world's record by reading printed matter at the rate of 8,000 words a minute.

To both of you, sir, my congratulations, and likewise my skepticism.

As I tote it up, the young man could read the Bible's 774,692 words in an hour and a half. Or, to go from the sublime to the ridiculous, one of my columns in five seconds flat.

Well, sir, I'm ornery enough to think Mr. Murch can read a column of mine in five seconds. It takes me almost that long to write one. And as for understanding what I have written—ha ha ha! On many occasions, after finishing a column, it has taken me as long as two weeks to figure out what it means.

Pleasantries aside, though, your high-octane approach to reading seems to me to make about as much sense as flying from Genoa to Rome in a jet and then claiming you have seen Italy. To put it another way, I don't think you can sprint through "War and Peace" and claim you have seen Tolstoy.

Incidentally, it strikes me that your course in speed reading may get a lot of people in trouble. In one corner, you are training students to read several thousand words a minute; in the other corner, editors of digest magazines are constantly compressing reading matter into fewer and fewer lines. One of these days you and the editors are going to pass each other, each going in the opposite direction. When that happens, the whole bunch of you are apt to find yourselves out of a job.

Sincerely,
BILLY ROSE.

"If this sort of thing isn't stopped, there may not be enough world left to fight World War III in."

An exaggeration, yes, but one with a bigger core of truth, than many have.

For instance, from Tokyo we have a report that U. S. authorities have urged that all fish taken from a specified area of the Pacific be examined for radioactive contamination. The concern in Japan, which uses fish over meat as a diet staple by a ratio of 10 to 1, is considerable.

Most of Japan's fish come from waters off Siberia and Korea, but the country's fishermen do range out into the mid-Pacific, as witness the 23 who fell victim to radioactive ash from the recent bomb explosion.

With an expanding population, and no hope of building up meat supplies, it is perhaps inevitable that Japanese fishing boats should work eastward in increasing numbers.

The thought that we may have contaminated any substantial portion of a useful food supply for a country trying so hard to get back on a solid economic footing ought to give us real pause.

To an explosion of such force as the March 1 blast, the vast reaches of the Pacific do not evidently afford the safety margin we might imagine. The world continues to shrink. It is now a serious question—one we hope Washington officials are asking themselves—whether there is any place on the globe where we may hereafter safely conduct hydrogen bomb experiments.

In letting loose a blast which exceeded scientific expectations by three or four times, we could have damaged the food source of a struggling island nation. Future promised blasts are supposed to be considerably more severe. Knowing now what it might do, dare we touch them off?

SOMEBODY ALWAYS KNOWS

In optimistic moments in the spring a man can lean on his rake and figure the future of mankind is safe.

Though all the books in all the libraries burn in some giant conflagration, though every written word be chewed to nothingness by weevils, we shall go on as unwaveringly as the sun.

For no matter what knowledge is needed there are two great pools which never can be dipped dry. Whatever the question, there is either a neighbor or someone down at the shop who knows the answer.

Let the warm spring breezes caress the wrinkles from your brow as you rake-lean. Let the perils, internal and external, leach from your soul.

Need to sharpen a star drill? Must you discipline your child? Your car not running properly?

Open that inexhaustible encyclopedia. Your friends will draw diagrams on tablecloths, write phone numbers on match books. It is hard to shut them up.

Back to raking, fellow, all's right with the world.

That man who is so busy raking his yard may be interested in keeping his place neat or he may merely be preparing a place where he can practice his putting.

DODGE RETIRES

Joseph M. Dodge, whose resignation as director of the budget will become effective on April 15, will be missed in Washington. President Eisenhower has accepted his resignation with reluctance. Dodge was the first man appointed by President Eisenhower when he came to office.

Dodge, like so many other Eisenhower appointees, agreed to take the job on a temporary basis only. In his letter of resignation to the President he pointed out that a great part of his time for the last eleven years has been devoted to public service. He will return to his post as chairman of the board of a Detroit bank.

Americans are frequently critical of those in public service and too often fail to show their appreciation to those who perform vital government jobs, often at salaries which represent real sacrifices. It is unfortunate that the pressure of business had made Dodge's resignation necessary. Since it has, however, he is entitled to the gratitude of his countrymen.

"CHOPPING BOCK" ASSIGNMENT

Senator Karl Mundt sure got himself what he calls a "chopping block" assignment when he stepped into the investigation as to who used rough language on whom between the McCarthy staff and the Stevens staff. The search for a favorably known lawyer of even seeming impartiality has been difficult because who wants to run an inquiry into childishness? The first lists of lawyers contained truly distinguished names, but each turned down the assignment. A counsel, Samuel Sears, has now been found who is willing to bring this dispute to a conclusion.

Mundt, who has been in the thick of it all, in his weekly report to his constituents, summarizes his conclusions as follows:

". . . (1) Involved here is no high crime against the Government like treason; no allegations of disloyalty against any of the parties concerned; no acts of corruption punishable by law. Yet, neither the deep freeze and mink coat disclosures; the charges of graft in the procurement and use of Government oil tankers; the 5 per cent commission agents; or the gift of American monetary plates to the Communists (in all of which investigations I participated) remotely rivaled the current affair in the attention being devoted by the newspapers and the radio. Only the Hiss Case (in which I also served as Acting Chairman)—exceeded this one in news coverage and editorial interest. (2) Involved here at worst are misconduct and misrepresentation by one or more individuals connected with the Army or the Senate Committee or both but unless perjury is subsequently committed in sworn testimony before our Committee no crime punishable by law is now charged or indicated. (3) Involved here at best are misunderstandings and mistakes by one or more individuals connected with the Army or the Senate Committee or both which have interfered with the orderly work of a growing number of officials both in the Army and in Congress."

Although Senator Mundt makes the point that no matter what was said among the various gentlemen involved in this controversy, no one actually yielded to pressure or blackmail, the fact is that the investigations have been stopped. In effect, all the members of the Committee, including Senator Joe McCarthy, have yielded to the pressure that the McCarthy investigations into the infiltration of Government departments by Communists be stopped. They have stopped.

This is undoubtedly satisfactory to those who object to investigations, particularly of themselves and their friends. Perhaps their hope is that McCarthy may be thwarted altogether, and that the investigations will not proceed.

In introducing this discussion in his weekly report, Senator Karl Mundt said:

"Whether it is because of the great degree to which global Communism has affected all our lives, or because of the controversial nature of McCarthy's operations, or because so many Americans have had relatives in the Army these past 20 years —or for some as yet undisclosed reason or cause— it is still difficult to understand the almost feverish interest of reporters and publications in our deliberations."

The interest is normal. It is not in the incident of the Cohn-Adams discussions. It is not in the harassed David Schine. It is in Joe McCarthy. Joe is what in radio they call a controversial person—one whose every word and action starts a controversy. It is true about anyone who comes near him. For instance, William F. Buckley, Jr., writes a book on "McCarthy and His Enemies," whereupon the Women's National Republican Club of New York withdraws an invitation for him to address them.

Apparently in this free land, orthodoxy requires non-association with McCarthy, although I do recall the Liberals complaining that McCarthy was guilty of imposing conformity.

Often controversies are over nothing particularly important, like, for instance, that one which seems to burn in some men's souls as to whether Bacon or someone else wrote Shakespeare because Shakespeare could not have written what he did write all by himself. What difference does it really make? Or, it is like the theologians who grow furious over the years of Joshua, some saying, as though they really knew, that he lived 200 years before Moses, and that therefore he could not have succeeded Moses, who might not have existed anyhow.

Joe McCarthy just is controversial and everything he does excites interest, enthusiasm and anger. And the reporters thrive on it, whether it is important or only adolescent.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

FLUORINE IN DRINKING WATER

Several years ago, in a certain district in Texas, it was found that the great majority of men, women and children were almost entirely free of tooth decay. In another district, many of the inhabitants had mottled teeth. Investigation showed that the cases of mottled teeth were caused by the same chemical, fluorine, that prevented the tooth decay. In the case of the mottled teeth, there was too high a percentage of fluorine present in the drinking water.

About the time the dental profession discovered this fact, many medical and dental officers of various cities were having controversies as to whether it was best to use fluorine to prevent decay of teeth even if it caused mottling in some cases. Unfortunately, this controversy reached great proportions and caused much violent disturbances in educational institutions. Now the members are about equally divided as to whether or not to have their drinking water treated with fluorine (fluoride).

From what can be learned from our dentists, the whole matter can be solved by watching the experiments being carried on in various cities and towns. In Toronto, Canada, the city council recently refused to treat the water of Lake Ontario with fluorine while a neighboring town passed a by-law to have their drinking water "fluorinated."

What is the explanation of a condition where the dental profession is divided about fluorination? Apparently the whole matter rests upon the percentage of fluorine in the water; dentists and municipal boards of health are not of one mind as to what is the correct percentage.

In general, from the reports in medical and dental journals, the majority of physicians and dentists are in favor of using fluorine of a low percentage while others apparently do not want to run the risk of having the public develop mottled teeth.

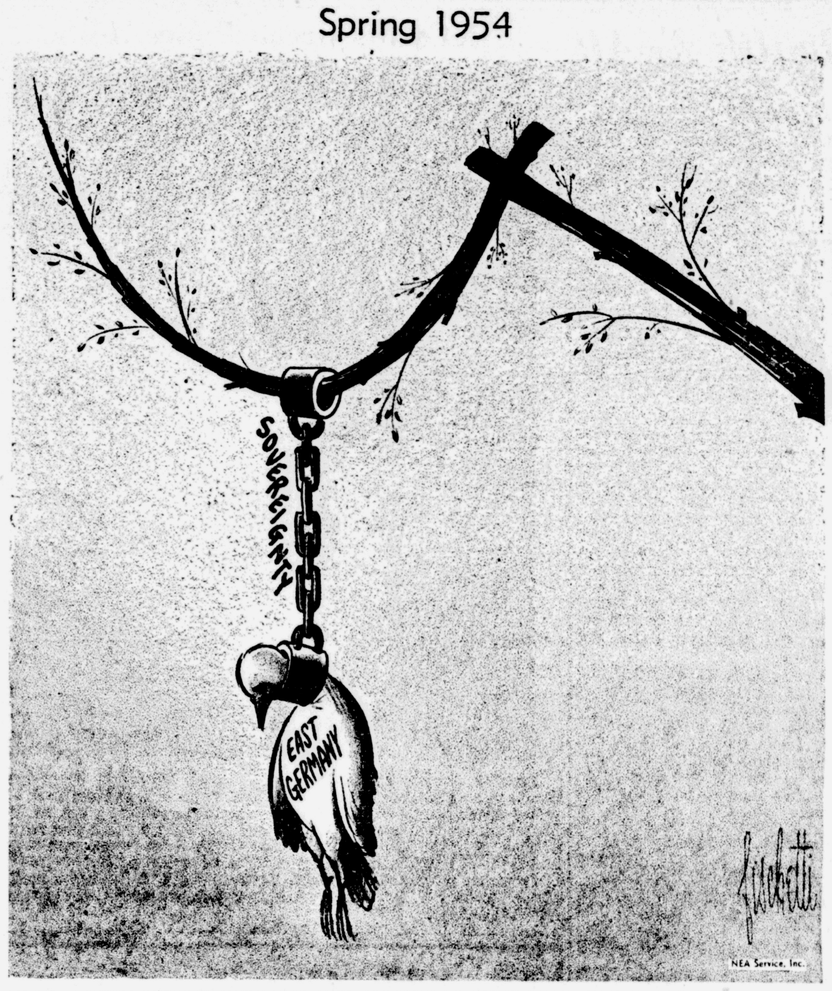

Until the controversy is finally settled, I am not mentioning at this time what is considered the right percentage of fluorine to use to prevent decay of teeth and at the same time prevent the disfiguration of mottled teeth. Only proper scientific investigation will give us the answer to this question.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington, (NEA) — Veteran political reporter Jack Bell introduced Arlene Francis as one of the entertainers at the National Press Club's Congressional Night. But working without notice, Mr. Bell made a slip of the tongue and introduced her as Arlene Thomas.

Miss Francise took the introduction, the laughter and the applause with a bow and her sweetest Hollywood smile. Then when everyone was quiet she said, "Thank you, Mr. Ding Dong."

The Navy hopes its startling new vertical take-off planes—known as VTO's—will overcome one of the most serious handicaps of jet aircraft. This is the difficulty of getting large formations into the air. Jets are so fast, fly so high, and consume so much fuel that it takes considerable planning and expert flying to make a rendezvous after conventional take-off and before they fly on a big mission, requiring massed airpower.

A number of VTO planes, however, can be launched simultaneously from a limited area, like an aircraft carrier deck or a short runway. Also, the VTO's can hover over a particular spot. One plane or one formation can thus just hang in the air at a rendezvous point, waiting for the others to assemble.

Veteran's Administration education officials hope Congress will make a quick change in the GI bill to benefit a million Korean vets who were discharged before Aug. 20, 1952. Under present laws these vets have until Aug. 20, 1954, to get started on some school or training program. After this date they will lose their rights.

VA officials point out that if the law is changed to extend this cut-off date just a few months, it will permit the Korean vets to enroll for the fall term in schools and colleges. Several bills have been introduced in Congress to change the date and pressure is being applied to have them enacted before early adjournment.

William White, president of the embattled New York Central R. R., which Robert R. Young is trying to take over, admits that discourtesy among employes who do business with the public is one of the basic causes for bad passenger business. Ever since he took over in 1952, Mr. White says he has been trying to improve this situation.

One discourtesy which has irritated Mr. White the most is the habit of ticket sellers and information people of not looking customers straight in the eye.

"They'll answer your question and sell you a ticket, but they always keep looking some place else. This inevitably makes the customer angry," says Mr. White. He rides his road considerably, and frequently takes an employe to task for some rudeness.

John G. Adams, the Army's chief legal counsel, has discovered a new way to dodge embarrassing questions. Mr. Adams is a key figure in the Senate special investigating committee's inquiry into charges that Senator McCarthy's chief counsel, Roy Cohn, tried to pressure the Army into giving preferential treatment to his former associate, G. David Schine.

When Mr. Adams stuck his head into the Pentagon pressroom the other day, reporters surrounded him. "Mr. Adams, will you submit to a lie detector test?" one of them asked.

Mr. Adams slapped his leg, laughed, then let out a big grunt.

"Does that big grunt mean you would or would not submit?" the reporter persisted.

With that Mr. Adams waved goodby and disappeared down the hall, grunting.

Prophesying that "a new era is dawning" and that "we are about to witness another great surge forward," U. S. Steel Corp. President Clifford F. Hood illustrates his prediction with a story about three men from Iowa.

"It was their first visit to the capital," relates Mr. Hood, "and of course they were all eyes and ears. While riding down Pennsylvania avenue, one of them spotted the inscription on the Archives building: "What is Past is Prologue."

"Fascinated, the Iowan asked the cab driver to pull over to the curb and he pointed to the poignant phrase. 'Know what that means?' he asked.

"'Why, sure!' said one of his companions. 'That's only government talk for, "You ain't seen nothing yet."'"

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 5—The truth is coming out at last about the responsibility for the attack on Pear Harbor on December 7, 1941 when 3,303 Americans were killed and 1,272 wounded.

Whether all the facts have as yet been revealed by Rear Admiral Theobald, USN (ret.), in his new book to which Fleet Admiral Halsey and Admiral Kimmel have written corroborative forewords or whether there will be further congressional inquiries, the information now being presented will undoubtedly force further disclosures from all persons now available for questioning.

Did the late President Roosevelt deliberately expose the American fleet to attack at Pearl Harbor, refusing twice to take the advice of Admiral Richardson, commander of the fleet, and order the battleships away from that vulnerable spot? Did Mr. Roosevelt purposely withhold vital information from Admiral Kimmel who succeeded Admiral Richardson at Pearl Harbor?

These are not the only questions which the Theobald book emphasizes, for the texts of all the pertinent messages are published and the reader is told flatly that the United States government knew many days in advance what the Japanese were planning because our code experts had been deciphering the Japanese messages to the Consul at Honolulu for several weeks before the attack.

Why were Admiral Kimmel and General Short deprived of the information about these intercepted messages? Who ordered them to be kept in ignorance of the fact that the Japanese government was asking its Consul for regular weekly reports on the position of the ships at Pearl Harbor?

Certain highly important November dispatches, declares Admiral Theobald, were not decoded in Washington until December 4 and 5. "Nevertheless," he says, "that still gave plenty of time to relay the significant revelations of this full set of Tokyo-Honolulu dispatches to the Hawaiian commanders.

"Not the slightest hint of all this was given to Admiral Kimmel or General Short. Why was such irrefutable evidence of the coming attack so withheld? Why did Washington contribute so completely to the surprise feature of the attack? There can be only one answer—because President Roosevelt wanted it that way."

The author rationalizes that both General Marshall and Admiral Stark, commanders of the army and navy respectively in Washington, were too experienced as military men to forego sending these messages on to Hawaii and assumes that they had positive orders from Mr. Roosevelt not to dispatch such messages. The trans-Pacific telephone from Washington to Pearl Harbor could have been used, it is added, and there was time for speedy message transmission but, instead, the slowest means were selected—and the messages got to Hawaii six hours after the attack had come.

Continuing, Admiral Theobald says it was unprecedented for the heads of the army and navy to act as they did. He writes:

"Never before in recorded history has a field commander been denied information that his country would be at war in a matter of hours, and that everything pointed to a surprise attack upon his forces shortly after sunrise. No naval officer, on his own initiative would every make such a decision as Admiral Stark did."

There have been eight investigations of the Pearl Harbor tragedy but all of them were conducted under the auspices of the Democratic administration. Excuses have been advanced that a general "alert" was given several days before to General Short and everybody else in the Pacific but no explanation has ever been produced as to why, when General Short replied with a message interpreting the meaning of that alert as related only to internal sabotage at Hawaii, he was allowed by his superiors in Washington to operate under that illusion for several days when Washington's own information pointed to an attack on Pearl Harbor itself.

Perhaps the most pertinent quotation bearing on all this is that taken by Admiral Theobald from the notation on November 25, 1941, in the diary of the late Henry L. Stimson, then secretary of war, who wrote:

"The question was how we should maneuver them (the Japanese) into position of firing the first shot without allowing too much danger to ourselves. It was a difficult proposition."

Admiral Theobald says the motive of President Roosevelt was to line up solid support inside the United States for a war against Japan in order that American military strength might be thrown decisively into the war against Hitler. This is the only rational explanation which the author can think of as to why the attack on Pearl Harbor, as he sees it, was practically "invited."

Fleet Admiral Halsey, in his foreword to the Theobald book, calls Admiral Kimmel and General Short "outstanding military martyrs" and says they "were thrown to the wolves as scapegoats for something over which they had no control."

The book is copyrighted by the Kevin-Adair Company, New York, and will be published April 21.

Take a Letter, Miss Schrank

Governor Charles E. Jones
State House
Tallahassee, Florida

Dear Mr. Governor:

I'd like to warn you about a crisis brewing in Madrid which just possibly could lose you your job.

To give it to you fast: Generalissimo Franco is demanding that the English give Gibraltar back to Spain.

How does this concern you? In this way: When Great Britain took possession of Gibraltar in 1783, is was part of an even-Steven swap, spelled out in detail in a treaty signed at Versailles. Spain handed over the big rock at the mouth of the Mediterranean. Britain, in return, deeded to Spain the island of Minorca, and, to sweeten the pot, threw in a hunk of swamp and sand known as Florida.

The facts concerning this transaction are documented in a recent issue of the famous English weekly, "The Economist," which goes on to say that if one half of the Versailles Treaty was invalid, as Franco claims, then so was the other half. Spain, therefore, had no right to sell Florida to the United States in 1819 for $5,000,000. In all fairness, the magazine concludes, before Franco further presses his claim to Gibraltar, it is incumbent on him to buy back Florida and return it to the English.

Right now, Mr. Governor, this suggestion is nothing to brood about. I doubt whether there's enough money in the Spanish Treasury to purchase the 200-foot waterfront plot my friend Danny Arnstein owns on Collins Avenue in Miami Beach.

But tomorrow? Well, that's something else again. The Spanish Treasury figures to get a lot more solvent in the near fiscal future, what with our spending $700,000,000 on Iberian air bases.

I don't know what you can do about the possible buy-back of Florida, sir, but I just thought you ought to be warned.

Yours, etc.

Denver, Colo.

My Dear Sir:

According to a press dispatch the other day, George Murch, one of your students in "speed reading," recently set a new world's record by reading printed matter at the rate of 8,000 words a minute.

To both of you, sir, my congratulations, and likewise my skepticism.

As I tote it up, the young man could read the Bible's 774,692 words in an hour and a half. Or, to go from the sublime to the ridiculous, one of my columns in five seconds flat.

Well, sir, I'm ornery enough to think Mr. Murch can read a column of mine in five seconds. It takes me almost that long to write one. And as for understanding what I have written—ha ha ha! On many occasions, after finishing a column, it has taken me as long as two weeks to figure out what it means.

Pleasantries aside, though, your high-octane approach to reading seems to me to make about as much sense as flying from Genoa to Rome in a jet and then claiming you have seen Italy. To put it another way, I don't think you can sprint through "War and Peace" and claim you have seen Tolstoy.

Incidentally, it strikes me that your course in speed reading may get a lot of people in trouble. In one corner, you are training students to read several thousand words a minute; in the other corner, editors of digest magazines are constantly compressing reading matter into fewer and fewer lines. One of these days you and the editors are going to pass each other, each going in the opposite direction. When that happens, the whole bunch of you are apt to find yourselves out of a job.

Sincerely,
BILLY ROSE.

The Carpet Stretcher

By FRANK TRIPP

Likely you're not going to move this spring, as yearly did a goodly percentage of people half a century ago. April was a month of exodus for all but the more lucky well-to-do.

Not so many owned their homes then, and with some it was "cheaper to move than pay rent," the catty said of many a departing neighbor.

Whether they moved or not, almost everything but the kitchen stove came out of the house for an airing.

"Spring house cleanin'" was a symbol of good housekeeping and could only be proved by exhibiting all of one's possessions in the yard and on the clothesline.

It is one event of the "good old days" which has passed the point of no return, and I wouldn't wish it back; not on a dog. For I was mother's little helper, even to high school weight of 180. The mere thought of house cleaning still drives me nuts.

HOSSING MATTRESSES and overstuffed Victorian furniture to the yard for a beating was bad enough, but it was the carpets which took the last vestige of joy out of spring.

Carpets covered every room except the kitchen, and were nailed every four inches close up to the baseboard. From taking them up and down the floor was so perforated that it looked like a sold-out punchboard.

My mother's notion was that no carpet was clean until it had the daylights whaled out of it on a clothesline for half a day, in a brisk wind, then spread on the grass and swept on both sides. There was no cheating because from anywhere in the house she could tell when I stopped beating.

THEN THEY ALL had to go back down and with the same dull and twisted carpet tacks, which were supposed to last at least three extractions. Most carpets those days were "ingrain" which had to be stretched to lay flat.

The carpet stretcher was a vicious gadget, an enemy of carpets and of all who used them. Prongs in a board, upon which you knelt, Caught the carpet while you used a hooked-on lever to stretch the edge to the wall so you could tack it. Carpets tore, except the choice Brussels in the parlor; fingers bled, mother raved and sons learned to curse, at least under their breath. The stair carpet also was an invention of the devil, the long, narrow, snaky things.

NEWSPAPERS or straw went under the carpets. I guess that's how newspapers got going—to be put under carpets and on pantry shelves. After the part they played in my young life as a carpet layer, why I went in the newspaper business is beyond me. Just to get even I guess.

Once when I handled a mail order advertising account the firm got an order from a long forgotten newspaper ad. They're all keyed, you know. I wrote the customer to learn how come. What do you think she replied?

She found the ad in a paper under a carpet in an old country place which she bought to remodel. The little salesman had been there 15 years. We sold her a bill of goods.

Now let's hear radio tell one.

THE EASTER BIRD — CHUB GOES BY BOAT — By WALT SCOTT

Kingston High School News

(Items in this column have been written by the Journalism Club.)

Circus Proves Popular

With the entire student body throwing its support behind the Cole Circus, which appeared in the Kate Walton Field House Thursday afternoon and evening, student Council, the sponsor of the show, has realized a profit of more than $700. Various student organizations, cooperating with the Council, sold more than 3,000 tickets.

This money will be used to purchase awards to be presented for school leadership at the end of the year.

Bruce Bechtold acted as chairman of tickets assisted by Barbara Chmura, while general arrangements were in charge of the officers: President Dick Bezemer, Vice-President Frank Reis, Secretary Joanne Lee and Treasurer Leland DeWitt.

During the past week the school organizations, including Key Club and marshals along with Student Council, sent representatives to the various schools and service clubs. Among those acting as solicitors were Dick English, Bob Shellenberger, Guy Crosby, Charles Hoffay, Richard Gendreau, Norman Rosenthal, Mike Epstein, John Mack, Charles Osterhoudt, David Schwartz, Don Bradley, Bob Raible, Bob Nash and Paul Giannuzzi.

Other workers were Betty Petri, Betty Ortlieb, Betsy Rigby, Walter Baschnagel, Loren Beehler, Patricia Perry, Herb Kirshner, Helen Bellswinger, Claudie Bouchard, Ed Strong, Evelyn Ruhrmann, Larry Giustinani, Joe Kelly, Philip Bunting, David Mellert, Ray Snyder, David Eighmey, Gail Kias and Carol Witham.

Road-Eo Planned

The Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce is making plans for the third annual Teen-age Road-Eo.

The candidates will first take a written examination and then a test of skill in parking and smooth stopping. By the process of elimination, the community's most skillful teen-age drivers will be selected. The Road-Eo will be held Sunday, May 23, in municipal stadium.

The local winners will be eligible for the state contest, held in Kingston, July 11. State winners go to Washington, D. C. to compete for a $3,100 scholarship August 10-14.

"By emphasizing the rules of the road and the skills needed for safe driving, we intend to give local youth a chance to prove that some of America's best drivers are teenagers" was the comment of Bob MacKinnon president of local Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Last year 600 contests were held with 80,000 participants and this year's Road-Eo isn't going to be any less successful.

Science Club Holds Fair

The Newton Science Club under the direction of Miss Ione Kinkade has sponsored the second annual Science Fair. The fair was held at KHS April 2. It was composed of two parts.

The first part was held at 2:30 p. m. and consisted of a demonstration of liquid oxygen by Dr. Paul Saunders from Alfred University. Tickets for this were sold by Science Club members.

In the evening KHS scientists displayed original exhibits which included a clay model of the heart, a nuclear reactor, fossils and a collection of animal footprints. Entries were judged by Jubs Viglielmo, a science teacher from Onteora; Arthur Hallinan, city engineer and John Ciccarelli, an engineer from Electrol. The winners will enter the Southeastern Science Fair at Ladycliff College May 1.

Honor Society Inducts

Nineteen high school students were given recognition for their ability in the study of French by being inducted into the French National Honor Society at a special assembly Thursday. Robert Shellenberger, president, conducted the meeting.

New members were Judith Broskie, Geraldine Schwark, Robert Coutant, Brian Fennelly, Robin Strongin, Elaine Macholt, Mark Ormiston, Elva Shultis, Robert Burns, Betty Ahlers, Caroline Meeker, Cynthia Haver, George Clark, Carolyn DeWitt, Audrey Bitter, Marlene Larios, Victoria Piaseake, Marjorie Smith and Joan Wenzel.

AA Party

Kingston High's annual AA Party will be held in the MJM gym, Friday, April 9. The fun begins at 8 p. m. with a full hour of entertainment followed by music of Ole Christensen's Band.

Larry Elwyn, Bobby Fisher, Pat Short, Jean Sickles, Angela Guistina and Peggy VanLoan along with the troupe of Bechtold, Bunting, Rich and ship and vocal group of Claudia Bouchard, Helen Bellswinger and Pat Palen will furnish the night's entertainment.

The highlight of the festivities is the crowning of the five Sport's Queens, Shirley Ellsworth, Sylvia Smith, Joyce Domanico, Barbara Van Kleeck and Betty Ortlieb. One of these will be crowned Queen of All Sports and will reign over the festivities.

Friends Fete Student

Chloe Trantou, exchange student from Greece, brought to Kingston by Prisma under the auspices of the American Field Service, was given a gala farewell party at the YWCA by more than 100 friends before she left for Scarsdale earlier this month. She expects to return to Kingston for weekends and vacations.

Prisma is now working with the American Field Service on the selection of a foreign student to study at Kingston High School next year. Members of Prisma are still undecided on the country from which they will choose their next guest student.

Attends Albany Congress

Kingston High School was represented at the annual State Student Congress by Tom Conway, Charles Osterhoudt and Donald Terry. The session, sponsored by the National Forensic League, was held at Albany State Teachers College March 27. The session at which all the local delegates spoke succeeded in passing one bill, a resolution to withhold diplomatic recognition of Communist China from the United Nations.

The Carpet Stretcher

By FRANK TRIPP

Likely you're not going to move this spring, as yearly did a goodly percentage of people half a century ago. April was a month of exodus for all but the more lucky well-to-do.

Not so many owned their homes then, and with some it was "cheaper to move than pay rent," the catty said of many a departing neighbor.

Whether they moved or not, almost everything but the kitchen stove came out of the house for an airing.

"Spring house cleanin' " was a symbol of good housekeeping and could only be proved by exhibiting all of one's possessions in the yard and on the clothesline.

It is one event of the "good old days" which has passed the point of no return, and I wouldn't wish it back; not on a dog. For I was mother's little helper, even to high school weight of 180. The mere thought of house cleaning still drives me nuts.

HOSSING MATTRESSES and overstuffed Victorian furniture to the yard for a beating was bad enough, but it was the carpets which took the last vestige of joy out of spring.

Carpets covered every room except the Kitchen, and were nailed every four inches close up to the baseboard. From taking them up and down the floor was so perforated that it looked like a sold-out punchboard.

My mother's notion was that no carpet was clean until it had the daylights whaled out of it on a clothesline for half a day, in a brisk wind, then spread on the grass and swept on both sides. There was no cheating because from anywhere in the house she could tell when I stopped beating.

THEN THEY ALL had to go back down and with the same dull and twisted carpet tacks, which were supposed to last at least three extractions. Most carpets those days were "ingrain" which had to be stretched to lay flat.

The carpet stretcher was a vicious gadget, an enemy of carpets and of all who used them. Prongs in a board, upon which you knelt, Caught the carpet while you used a hooked-on lever to stretch the edge to the wall so you could tack it. Carpets tore, except the choice Brussels in the parlor; fingers bled, mother raved and sons learned to curse, at least under their breath. The stair carpet also was an invention of the devil, the long, narrow, snaky things.

NEWSPAPERS or straw went under the carpets. I guess that's how newspapers got going—to be put under carpets and on pantry shelves. After the part they played in my young life as a carpet layer, why I went in the newspaper business is beyond me. Just to get even I guess.

Once when I handled a mail order advertising account the firm got an order from a long forgotten newspaper ad. They're all keyed, you know. I wrote the customer to learn how come. What do you think she replied?

She found the ad in a paper under a carpet in an old country place which she bought to remodel. The little salesman had been there 15 years. We sold her a bill of goods.

Now let's hear radio tell one.

THE EASTER BIRD — CHUB GOES BY BOAT — By WALT SCOTT

Kingston High School News

Circus Proves Popular

With the entire student body throwing its support behind the Cole Circus, which appeared in the Kate Walton Field House Thursday afternoon and evening, student Council, the sponsor of the show, has realized a profit of more than $700. Various student organizations, cooperating with the Council, sold more than 3,000 tickets.

This money will be used to purchase awards to be presented for school leadership at the end of the year.

Bruce Bechtold acted as chairman of tickets assisted by Barbara Chmura, while general arrangements were in charge of the officers: President Dick Bezemer, Vice-President Frank Reis, Secretary Joanne Lee and Treasurer Leland DeWitt.

During the past week the school organizations, including Key Club and marshals along with Student Council, sent representatives to the various schools and service clubs. Among those acting as solicitors were Dick English, Bob Shellenberger, Guy Crosby, Charles Hoffay, Richard Gendreau, Norman Rosenthal, Mike Epstein, John Mack, Charles Osterhoudt, David Schwartz, Don Bradley, Bob Raible, Bob Nash and Paul Giannuzzi.

Other workers were Betty Petri, Betty Ortlieb, Betsy Rigby, Walter Baschnagel, Loren Beehler, Patricia Perry, Herb Kirshner, Helen Bellswinger, Claudie Bouchard, Ed Strong, Evelyn Ruhrmann, Larry Giustinani, Joe Kelly, Philip Bunting, David Mellert, Ray Snyder, David Eighmey, Gail Kias and Carol Witham.

Road-Eo Planned

The Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce is making plans for the third annual Teen-age Road-Eo.

The candidates will first take a written examination and then a test of skill in parking and smooth stopping. By the process of elimination, the community's most skillful teen-age drivers will be selected. The Road-Eo will be held Sunday, May 23, in municipal stadium.

The local winners will be eligible for the state contest, held in Kingston, July 11. State winners go to Washington, D. C. to compete for a $3,100 scholarship August 10-14.

"By emphasizing the rules of the road and the skills needed for safe driving, we intend to give local youth a chance to prove that some of America's best drivers are teenagers" was the comment of Bob MacKinnon president of local Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Last year 600 contests were held with 80,000 participants and this year's Road-Eo isn't going to be any less successful.

Science Club Holds Fair

The Newton Science Club under the direction of Miss Ione Kinkade has sponsored the second annual Science Fair. The fair was held at KHS April 2. It was composed of two parts.

The first part was held at 2:30 p. m. and consisted of a demonstration of liquid oxygen by Dr. Paul Saunders from Alfred University. Tickets for this were sold by Science Club members.

In the evening KHS scientists displayed original exhibits which included a clay model of the heart, a nuclear reactor, fossils and a collection of animal footprints. Entries were judged by Jubs Viglielmo, a science teacher from Onteora; Arthur Hallinan, city engineer and John Ciccarelli, an engineer from Electrol. The winners will enter the Southeastern Science Fair at Ladycliff College May 1.

Honor Society Inducts

Nineteen high school students were given recognition for their ability in the study of French by being inducted into the French National Honor Society at a special assembly Thursday. Robert Shellenberger, president, conducted the meeting.

New members were Judith Broskie, Geraldine Schwark, Robert Coutant, Brian Fennelly, Robin Strongin, Elaine Macholt, Mark Ormiston, Elva Shultis, Robert Burns, Betty Ahlers, Caroline Meeker, Cynthia Haver, George Clark, Carolyn DeWitt, Audrey Bitter, Marlene Larios, Victoria Piaseake, Marjorie Smith and Joan Wenzel.

AA Party

Kingston High's annual AA Party will be held in the MJM gym, Friday, April 9. The fun begins at 8 p. m. with a full hour of entertainment followed by music of Ole Christensen's Band.

Larry Elwyn, Bobby Fisher, Pat Short, Jean Sickles, Angela Guistina and Peggy VanLoan along with the troupe of Bechtold, Bunting, Rich and ship and vocal group of Claudia Bouchard, Helen Bellswinger and Pat Palen will furnish the night's entertainment.

The highlight of the festivities is the crowning of the five Sport's Queens, Shirley Ellsworth, Sylvia Smith, Joyce Domanico, Barbara Van Kleeck and Betty Ortlieb. One of these will be crowned Queen of All Sports and will reign over the festivities.

Friends Fete Student

Chloe Trantou, exchange student from Greece, brought to Kingston by Prisma under the auspices of the American Field Service, was given a gala farewell party at the YWCA by more than 100 friends before she left for Scarsdale earlier this month. She expects to return to Kingston for weekends and vacations.

Prisma is how working with the American Field Service on the selection of a foreign student to study at Kingston High School next year. Members of Prisma are still undecided on the country from which they will choose their next guest student.

Attends Albany Congress

Kingston High School was represented at the annual State Student Congress by Tom Conway, Charles Osterhoudt and Donald Terry. The session, sponsored by the National Forensic League, was held at Albany State Teachers College March 27. The session at which all the local delegates spoke succeeded in passing one bill, a resolution to withhold diplomatic recognition of Communist China from the United Nations.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Progress Is Noted At Scout Parley

Saugerties, April 5—The monthly meeting of the Saugerties District Scouters held Thursday night at the Centerville fire hall brought about the closing of the scouting business for the year.

Chairman John J. Woods outlined the progress evident in the district during his term of office. Woods said that the progress made in scouting will not immediately show up in the records now but will be enlightening next year at this time. Woods observed that leadership has been more active in Saugerties in the past six months than ever before. Recruiting has been brisk, faltering troops and cubpacks have been reorganized and are now operating satisfactorily.

William Plimley, district commissioner, commended the neighborhood commissioners for their outstanding achievements in securing new leadership and also for their cooperation given the district organization and extension chairman in reorganizing faltering troops and cub packs and also in organizing new units. The commissioners commended were Eugene Davis and Larry Spatz of Saugerties, John Paige of the Centerville-Quarryville area and Albert Cawein for the Malden-West Camp areas.

The scouters were informed by Jack Noble's organization and extension report that Cub Pack 32 sponsored by the Couples Club of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Atonement was organized and in operation. Noble also reported that the formation of a new pack in the Malden-West Camp area was in process. The organizational meetings for the new group are scheduled for Tuesday, April 20, 27 and May 4 at 7:30 p. m. in the Sunday school hall at the Quarryville Methodist Church. William Ormandy, cubmaster of Pack 130; Albert Cawein, neighborhood commissioner and Noble will conduct the parent training sessions. The Palenville Methodist Church is also contemplating sponsorship of a cub pack and their prospective leaders and parents of cub candidates will attend these sessions.

Work Party Set

In his camping report Edward Flanagan made known that a work party is scheduled for May 15 and 16 to prepare Camp Tri-Mount for the summer camping season. The camp officially opens July 4.

Information from Chairman Wood reported that the Rip Van Winkle Council banquet is scheduled for Tuesday, May 25 at the George Washington School in Kingston. The deadline for ticket returns is May 20. The annual event will have Herbert Singer of Amsterdam as principal speaker. Singer is regional vice-chairman of the scouting organization. There was also a reminder by Wood regarding the Saugerties District annual banquet which will be held Thursday, May 6, at the West Camp parish hall. Deadline for these tickets will be Saturday, May 1.

Dates of future programs were outlined by District Commissioner Plimley. His list of events included the Saugerties District Court of Honor which is scheduled for Wednesday, April 28 at 7:30 p. m. in the municipal auditorium: the Saugerties District Camporee which will be held on May 21, 22 and 23 at Zena; the Council Camporee which will be held June 4, 5 and 6 at Camp Tri-Mount and a special planning meeting scheduled for scouters, commissioners and leader to be held at Plimley's home Thursday, April 22 to make final arrangements for the Court of Honor.

In summary and projection Frank Teel, scout field executive said that the next Explorer Program trip would be to the Mystic Seaport May 22 and 23. There the boys will see two whaling vessels, the Joseph Conrad and the Australia. They will also have available for their use 12 sailboats. However, Teel said that their use would be restricted to boys credited with swimming merit badges. The trip will also include movies, slides and trips on ships. Teel further outlined another Explorer event, the Canadian Canoe Trip to a camp 190 miles north of Ottawa. The Explorer Program at Camp Tri-Mount will include a trip to Devil's Tombstone where hiking, swimming and fishing will be on the program.

Teel further announced that commissioners' training sessions would be conducted at camp this year July 24 and 25 and Advanced Scout Training July 17 and 18. The next district meeting will be the annual banquet Thursday, May 6 at West Camp. The nominating committee will at that time present a full slate of officers for the annual election during the session and dinner.

Federal Excise Taxes on Telephone Service REDUCED

Tax on Long Distance REDUCED from 25% to 10%

Tax on Local service REDUCED from 15% to 10%

This is good news for telephone users.

Congress has decided that excise taxes on telephone service should not exceed 10 per cent. It has made the above reductions effective April 1.

These are substantial reductions in a tax load that has been far too heavy—heavier in fact than on most luxuries. We know you will be glad to have them.

Here are two important points to remember:

1. Even with the reductions, the tax load on telephone service will still be among the heaviest in industry. Taxes will take more than 27 cents out of every dollar you pay for telephone service.

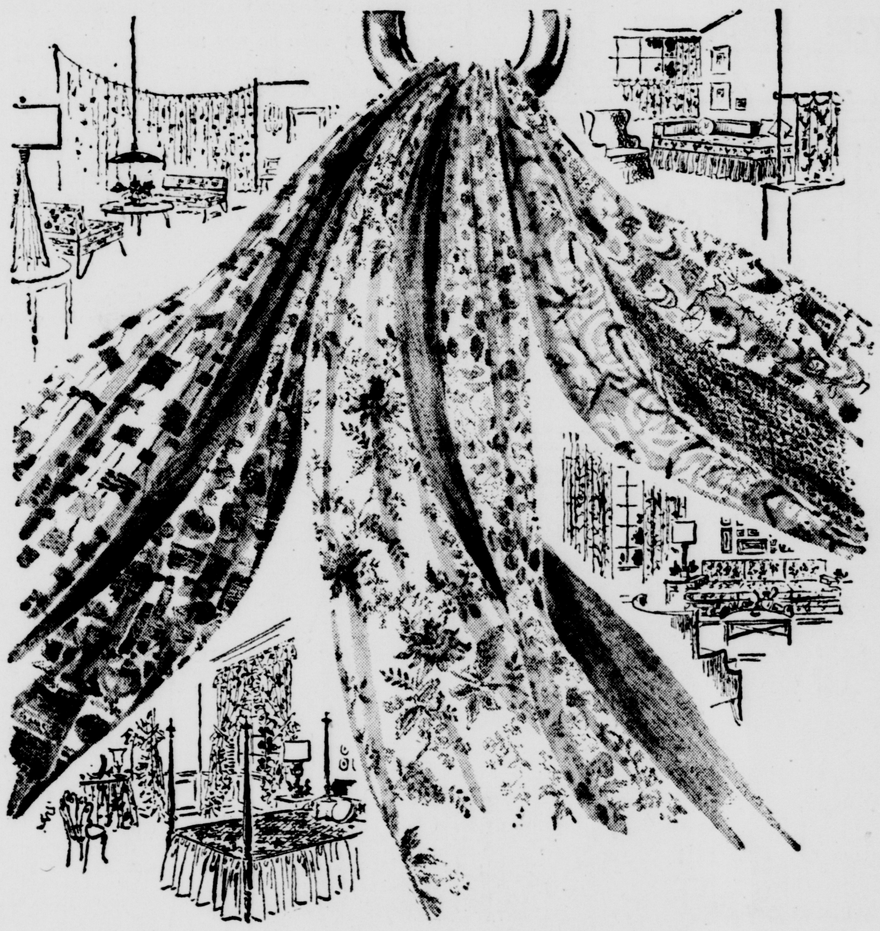

2. The full benefit of this tax cut comes to you—your telephone bill will be reduced by the entire difference between the old and new taxes. The Telephone Company will not get a penny of it.

The new, lower tax rates will help make your telephone service, both local and long distance, an even bigger bargain.

Chairman John J. Woods outlined the progress evident in the district during his term of office. Woods said that the progress made in scouting will not immediately show up in the records now but will be enlightening next year at this time. Woods observed that leadership has been more active in Saugerties in the past six months than ever before. Recruiting has been brisk, faltering troops and cubpacks have been reorganized and are now operating satisfactorily.

William Plimley, district commissioner, commended the neighborhood commissioners for their outstanding achievements in securing new leadership and also for their cooperation given the district organization and extension chairman in reorganizing faltering troops and cub packs and also in organizing new units. The commissioners commended were Eugene Davis and Larry Spatz of Saugerties, John Paige of the Centerville-Quarryville area and Albert Cawein for the Malden-West Camp areas.

The scouters were informed by Jack Noble's organization and extension report that Cub Pack 32 sponsored by the Couples Club of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Atonement was organized and in operation. Noble also reported that the formation of a new pack in the Malden-West Camp area was in process. The organizational meetings for the new group are scheduled for Tuesday, April 20, 27 and May 4 at 7:30 p. m. in the Sunday school hall at the Quarryville Methodist Church. William Ormandy, cubmaster of Pack 130; Albert Cawein, neighborhood commissioner and Noble will conduct the parent training sessions. Drilling for Gas means about two months of drilling will be required before it will be known whether the venture will be successful, Atwater explained.

Before stockholders and other guests inspected the cable tool rig in operation on the site, they were treated to lunch at the Phoenicia Hotel and were given a briefing on the corporation's drilling plans.

Outlines Studies

Atwater outlined the geological studies which led to the decision to attempt to find gas in the Panther Mountain dome area. He pointed out on a map the nearly complete circle made around the dome structure by the Esopus river, and said that "to a geologist, a river in a circle means a dome."

Photographic slides were shown of several area water wells where gas is present, and Atwater pointed out that this oddity "doesn't guarantee we're going to get gas below," but "just shows it is a favorable gas country."

Atwater ventured an opinion that "if we do" find gas "it will be a humdinger." He also pointed out that there was a possibility of striking oil before the 5,500-foot depth is reached, but said that indications are that the oil possibility is not likely to be of commercial value as the gas may be.

Others Speak Briefly

Other principals who spoke briefly were Stewart Currie of Hamilton, president of Dome Gas and Oil; Sidney Lieberman, New York, president of North Star Oil and Uranium Corporation, the parent corporation; and Leron Hodge of Hamilton, attorney for the corporation.

The venture is financed by 600,000 shares of stock in North Star, offered as a speculation at 50 cents a share. It was reported Saturday that approximately 150,000 shares had been subscribed.

Of the 100 persons at the meeting, about 60 were shareholders, corporation officials said. The remainder included owners of property in the area who had granted leases to the company.

Mitchell Suggests

said "no individual has a right to use the Democratic Party for personal vindication nor to divert the energy and prestige of the Democratic Party to solving personal problems

Offers No Opinion

The state committeeman offered no opinion on Condon.

Mitchell in his letter emphasized he was not expressing an opinion on the charges against either candidate, but indicated he objected to the idea that "our primary may be used for personal vindication."

Roosevelt's wife, Romelle, is suing him for separate maintenance. She charged him with adultery in three instances and introduced in the court proceedings a letter in which he admitted adultery with nine women. He has repudiated the letter, saying he signed it to keep a family dispute secret at a critical time during the war, when he was going overseas.

Roosevelt at one point said he was releasing friends and supporters. But he has remained actively in the race.

In this connection, Mitchell wrote that the courts, not elections, are the proper forum for deciding "private litigation relating to a man's domestic affairs."

'By Standing Aside'

"I believe most Democrats would feel that the candidate would serve his party best by standing aside from election contests until personal problems are disposed of in the proper place." He added.

But Roosevelt's campaign manager, Ed Lybeck, said in Los Angeles last night he talked at length with the candidate and "our sole purpose" is to allow the voters of the district to decide.

Condon was barred by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) from a test at the Nevada proving grounds last May 7. Saying that "stale political charges" were being revived against him, the first-term representative obtained a hearing before the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

He denied under oath that he or any member of his family was a Communist and said he had not inquired into the political beliefs of his former California law partners.

Mitchell said in his letter the congressional committee had made no decision and the AEC had not lifted the ban, and therefore he added:

Condon "carries the handicap of restraint . . . from which other members of Congress are free. The charges on which these restraints are based must be considered as serious and continuing . . .

"Until they are resolved, I shall not propose any action by the national committee that might be considered an endorsement of Mr. Condon's fitness."

Mitchell said his letter was written in response to the California party official's request for "our advice and financial assistance."

Toscanini Ends

daughters and two friends.

Through most of the hour-and-a-quarter broadcast program, Toscanini conducted with his usual vigor. He had chosen for the occasion selections from "Tannhaeuser," "Meistersinger," "Lohengrin," "Siegfried," and "Die Goeterdaemmerung."

By the last number, however, he quieted noticeably and allowed the music to slide along with no more than a mechanical beat for the climax which formerly stirred him to action.

His tread as he left the stage was cautious and slow.

David Sarnoff, chairman of the board of RCA and NBC, released the letter in which Toscanini told him "the sad time has come when I must reluctantly lay aside my baton and say goodby to my orchestra."

He left to Sarnoff the task of relaying his "cordial and sincere thanks" to his listeners and his orchestra.

The NBC Orchestra will continue playing under other conductors through the spring. Plans after that are still to be announced.

Since the end of World War 2 the number of U. S. federal, civilian-jobholders has declined about a million.

Defenders Kill

eastern and southeastern defenses of the French-held plain 175 miles west of Hanoi.

Doubts Another Assault

A French spokesman said then he doubted the Vietminh could mount another heavy assault within 12 hours but emphasized the attackers' pullback of 400 to 500 yards could in no way be called a retreat.

"It's merely a slackening of their line, probably for regrouping. The battle is far from over," the spokesman added.

Today was the sixth day of steady attack by the fanatic, screaming legions of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh in a renewal of the infantry assaults first launched at the fortress March 13, then broken off three days later.

Authoritative French sources estimated the Vietminh had lost 21,000 killed and wounded—about half their original attacking force—in the past three weeks of fighting.

But the fortress' defenders—French, Vietnamese, North Africans, Foreign Legionnaires and Thai tribesmen—were still outnumbered.

The French also announced that the Vietminh invaders into the kingdom of Cambodia had taken the town of Voeune Sai, 30 miles inside the Laotian border. Army experts viewed this first Vietminh incursion into Cambodia as a diversionary action designed to draw French strength from Dien Bien Phu.

Three Authorities

virus is considered to be a satisfactory vaccine."

Some of the tests which showed live virus, Dr. Salk said, "were actually conducted as checks on the manufacturing processes and it was known in advance the results would not be satisfactory.

En route to Ann Arbor, Mich., to attend a meeting on influenza, Dr. Salk added at Detroit:

"It is nice to have the advice of sidewalk superintendents — like Winchell—and we will give his criticism our attention, but this is actually a misrepresentation of what we are doing.

"The vaccine is tested for effectiveness and margin of safety, before use, the vaccine is passed for safety by three leading health groups."

Only vaccine passing all three testings is used in inoculations, he said.

"That is exactly the purpose of the tests."

Dr. Salk has inoculated his own children among about 5,000 given the vxaccine prepared in his own laboratory. Dr. Van Riper said Dr. Salk also has inoculated about 3,000 children with vaccine made commercially.

Spokesmen for three (not "two") of the five firms making the vaccine commercially—on a non-profit basis for the tests—said the safety is guaranteed by the triple testing. The firms are Eli Lilly & Co. and Pitman-Moore Co., Indianapolis, and Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit.

Parke, Davis said in a statement: "Winchell must have been talking about material that either would have been discarded anyway or processed and tested further for fitness. No unfit vaccine was or would be shipped out of these laboratories."

Arterial Route Plan Bills Signed

costs of rights-of-way under the original plan. This, it has been estimated, with modifications of the plan, could be cut down substantially.

It was also suggested at the council session that Hurley avenue (Route 209) and Washington avenue in the viaduct area be added to the state's route plan. It was noted that the greater length of the spur leading off Albany avenue would be outside of the city, and that such city streets made part of the plan would be maintained by the state.

Drilling for Gas

means about two months of drilling will be required before it will be known whether the venture will be successful, Atwater explained.

Before stockholders and other guests inspected the cable tool rig in operation on the site, they were treated to lunch at the Phoenicia Hotel and were given a briefing on the corporation's drilling plans.

Outlines Studies

Atwater outlined the geological studies which led to the decision to attempt to find gas in the Panther Mountain dome area. He pointed out on a map the nearly complete circle made around the dome structure by the Esopus river, and said that "to a geologist, a river in a circle means a dome."

Photographic slides were shown of several area water wells where gas is present, and Atwater pointed out that this oddity "doesn't guarantee we're going to get gas below," but "just shows it is a favorable gas country."

Atwater ventured an opinion that "if we do" find gas "it will be a humdinger." He also pointed out that there was a possibility of striking oil before the 5,500-foot depth is reached, but said that indications are that the oil possibility is not likely to be of commercial value as the gas may be.

Others Speak Briefly

Other principals who spoke briefly were Stewart Currie of Hamilton, president of Dome Gas and Oil; Sidney Lieberman, New York, president of North Star Oil and Uranium Corporation, the parent corporation; and Leron Hodge of Hamilton, attorney for the corporation.

The venture is financed by 600,000 shares of stock in North Star, offered as a speculation at 50 cents a share. It was reported Saturday that approximately 150,000 shares had been subscribed.

Of the 100 persons at the meeting, about 60 were shareholders, corporation officials said. The remainder included owners of property in the area who had granted leases to the company.

Mitchell Suggests

said "no individual has a right to use the Democratic Party for personal vindication nor to divert the energy and prestige of the Democratic Party to solving personal problems

Offers No Opinion

The state committeeman offered no opinion on Condon.

Mitchell in his letter emphasized he was not expressing an opinion on the charges against either candidate, but indicated he objected to the idea that "our primary may be used for personal vindication."

Roosevelt's wife, Romelle, is suing him for separate maintenance. She charged him with adultery in three instances and introduced in the court proceedings a letter in which he admitted adultery with nine women. He has repudiated the letter, saying he signed it to keep a family dispute secret at a critical time during the war, when he was going overseas.

Roosevelt at one point said he was releasing friends and supporters. But he has remained actively in the race.

In this connection, Mitchell wrote that the courts, not elections, are the proper forum for deciding "private litigation relating to a man's domestic affairs."

'By Standing Aside'

"I believe most Democrats would feel that the candidate would serve his party best by standing aside from election contests until personal problems are disposed of in the proper place." He added.

But Roosevelt's campaign manager, Ed Lybeck, said in Los Angeles last night he talked at length with the candidate and "our sole purpose" is to allow the voters of the district to decide.

Condon was barred by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) from a test at the Nevada proving grounds last May 7. Saying that "stale political charges" were being revived against him, the first-term representative obtained a hearing before the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

He denied under oath that he or any member of his family was a Communist and said he had not inquired into the political beliefs of his former California law partners.

Mitchell said in his letter the congressional committee had made no decision and the AEC had not lifted the ban, and therefore he added:

Condon "carries the handicap of restraint . . . from which other members of Congress are free. The charges on which these restraints are based must be considered as serious and continuing . . .

"Until they are resolved, I shall not propose any action by the national committee that might be considered an endorsement of Mr. Condon's fitness."

Mitchell said his letter was written in response to the California party official's request for "our advice and financial assistance."

Toscanini Ends

daughters and two friends.

Through most of the hour-and-a-quarter broadcast program, Toscanini conducted with his usual vigor. He had chosen for the occasion selections from "Tannhaeuser," "Meistersinger," "Lohengrin," "Siegfried," and "Die Goeterdaemmerung."

By the last number, however, he quieted noticeably and allowed the music to slide along with no more than a mechanical beat for the climax which formerly stirred him to action.

His tread as he left the stage was cautious and slow.

David Sarnoff, chairman of the board of RCA and NBC, released the letter in which Toscanini told him "the sad time has come when I must reluctantly lay aside my baton and say goodby to my orchestra."

He left to Sarnoff the task of relaying his "cordial and sincere thanks" to his listeners and his orchestra.

The NBC Orchestra will continue playing under other conductors through the spring. Plans after that are still to be announced.

Since the end of World War 2 the number of U. S. federal, civilian-jobholders has declined about a million.

Defenders Kill

eastern and southeastern defenses of the French-held plain 175 miles west of Hanoi.

Doubts Another Assault

A French spokesman said then he doubted the Vietminh could mount another heavy assault within 12 hours but emphasized the attackers' pullback of 400 to 500 yards could in no way be called a retreat.

"It's merely a slackening of their line, probably for regrouping. The battle is far from over," the spokesman added.

Today was the sixth day of steady attack by the fanatic, screaming legions of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh in a renewal of the infantry assaults first launched at the fortress March 13, then broken off three days later.

Authoritative French sources estimated the Vietminh had lost 21,000 killed and wounded—about half their original attacking force—in the past three weeks of fighting.

But the fortress' defenders—French, Vietnamese, North Africans, Foreign Legionnaires and Thai tribesmen—were still outnumbered.

The French also announced that the Vietminh invaders into the kingdom of Cambodia had taken the town of Voeune Sai, 30 miles inside the Laotian border. Army experts viewed this first Vietminh incursion into Cambodia as a diversionary action designed to draw French strength from Dien Bien Phu.

Three Authorities

virus is considered to be a satisfactory vaccine."

Some of the tests which showed live virus, Dr. Salk said, "were actually conducted as checks on the manufacturing processes and it was known in advance the results would not be satisfactory."

En route to Ann Arbor, Mich., to attend a meeting on influenza, Dr. Salk added at Detroit:

"It is nice to have the advice of sidewalk superintendents — like Winchell—and we will give his criticism our attention, but this is actually a misrepresentation of what we are doing.

"The vaccine is tested for effectiveness and margin of safety, before use, the vaccine is passed for safety by three leading health groups."

Only vaccine passing all three testings is used in inoculations, he said.

"That is exactly the purpose of the tests."

Dr. Salk has inoculated his own children among about 5,000 given the vxaccine prepared in his own laboratory. Dr. Van Riper said Dr. Salk also has inoculated about 3,000 children with vaccine made commercially.

Spokesmen for three (not "two") of the five firms making the vaccine commercially—on a non-profit basis for the tests—said the safety is guaranteed by the triple testing. The firms are Eli Lilly & Co. and Pitman-Moore Co., Indianapolis, and Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit.

Parke, Davis said in a statement: "Winchell must have been talking about material that either would have been discarded anyway or processed and tested further for fitness. No unfit vaccine was or would be shipped out of these laboratories."

Arterial Route Plan Bills Signed

costs of rights-of-way under the original plan. This, it has been estimated, with modifications of the plan, could be cut down substantially.

It was also suggested at the council session that Hurley avenue (Route 209) and Washington avenue in the viaduct area be added to the state's route plan. It was noted that the greater length of the spur leading off Albany avenue would be outside of the city, and that such city streets made part of the plan would be maintained by the state.

There's a final, haunting echo to that delightful Rodgers and Hammerstein show. And that's this question—how come they didn't use the favorite songs of the two great composers?

Dick's own choice is "You'll Never Walk Alone," while Oscar leans toward both "Hello, Young Lovers" and "The Surrey With the Fringe On Top." None of them were sung on the big show, and Broadway is curious about the omissions.

Maybe they'll get to hear their favorites, when they make good.

The circus—in New York it's called "de soicus"—has come to town. And, for your further enlightenment, I asked Dick Barstow, who stages the big Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey show, how to watch all three rings at once. Turns out I grossly underestimated the production. Barstow says there are actually nine points of action—three rings, two stages, three aerial positions and the track around the rings.

"For a spectator," Dick says, "there are really 10 places to watch—the nine points in the arena, and you've got to look for the peanut vendor."

If you can imagine such a thing as a public-spirited disc jockey, follow me to Hunter College High School and watch ABC's Martin Block at work. His theory is that music hath charms to soothe the savage juvenile delinquent, so let's play records at high school dances. He therefore took himself and his turntable and his records over to HCHS for a dance, and I went along, too.

At the door I was met by the pretty vice-president of HCHS's General Organization, Joan Karon—"spelled like Leslie Caron, only with a K." There was also a girl with a tray of cookies—or should that be "kookies?" Inside were two gyms, fancied up with balloons and leaves and Martin Block.

Joan led me over to where Block was trying to broadcast. The kids were jammed around, listening and talking but not doing much dancing. They made so much noise you couldn't hear the music. Block was trying to get them to ssssh.

Then Joan and I went upstairs, to a room that had been fixed up for refreshments. We had a Coke and a cookie and she told me that this dance was arranged to coincide with Block's air time. The school had been in a dither for a week.

"You should have been here earlier," she said, excitedly, "when Eileen Barton came. She was wearing black satin tights. You should have seen that."

Back downstairs, Block was still trying to keep the kids quiet. They'd discovered that a slight pressure on the balloons broke them with a dandy bang. Joan, a dutiful official, confiscated a balloon from a youth who had balloon-popping written all over him. She also spotted some lap-sitting going on, and put a stop to that promptly.

Everybody seemed to be behaving fine and having fun. Except Martin Block.

CHEAP MONEY—HIGH COSTS

The floating supply of good stocks is getting smaller each year. Insurance companies are buying them for long investments. Investment trusts and mutual funds absorb thousands of shares annually. Educational, religious and humanitarian institutions furnish a steady buying power.

What is behind all this? Well, cheap money and high living costs are two prominent factors. The government 3¼ per cent bonds due in 24 years are selling at $109. Thus, to buy assured annual income of $32.50 in such high grade obligations an investor would have to pay $1090 for a thousand dollar bond.

How about living costs? They are high. Eggs in New York city sell for 76 cents a dozen, and milk is 27 cents a quart. Money is the only important cheap commodity in America.

There are millions of American investors who should look as critically and objectively into this cheap money-high cost situation as do the institutions, organizations and societies. If they would do so, they would have courageous courses of action opened to them.

I carefully watch the common stock operations of the insurance company behind my own largest policy. Last year this company purchased about $20,000,000 of stocks. Today, this strong institution owns over 1,200,000 common shares of about 50 of the ranking enterprises in America.

There are 11 oil stocks, five chemicals, and 20 industrials among the dozen industries represented. They are the cream of our country. In an immense portfolio worth hundreds of million of dollars, they give a lift to the economic future of the company.

Cheap money (low interest rates) has revolutionized many investment practices and procedures. This is only logical. What I desire to see is a complete change of investment policy on the part of committees, trustees and individuals responsible for the handling of savings that should earn more than cheap money does.

I should like to suggest to any reader of these lines who has an insurance contract and cheap money out at interest that he write his insurance company asking for (1) a list of the common and preferred stocks held by the company and (2) a statement of the enterprise's policy respecting such investments.

Decisions of far-reaching effects may result. They have in the past. As everybody knows, insurance values are fixed dollar values. Yet money, under the impact of Uncle Sam's borrowing, has become so cheap that insurance companies, under legal sanction, have bought and are buying equity values. And such values are anything but fixed.

Any investor who saves and accumulates dollars and who never buys good stocks is failing to recognize the economic forces that have driven interest rates down to an uneconomic level.

Are all of your savings in dollars? Convert some of them into growing equities. Ask your banker what stocks he buys. If he is a bank director, he is required to own his own shares. And his bank, regardless of its location, will carry reserve accounts in other institutions. Many, if not most, of the bank shares in the leading cities of America pay good dividends and an objective analysis of such equities will reveal their investment quality.

(Q) "I have $5,000 to invest. Will you name five industries and five corporations in which I could buy common stocks?"

(A) (1) Utilities (2) oils (3) motors (4) chemicals and (5) banks. Consult your banker or broker in selecting individual stocks. Buy nothing that has not paid regular, dependable dividends from 1928-1953.

Harry C. France will answer one letter each week through this column. If you have any investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

There are 11 oil stocks, five chemicals, and 20 industrials among the dozen industries represented. They are the cream of our country. In an immense portfolio worth hundreds of million of dollars, they give a lift to the economic future of the company.

Cheap money (low interest rates) has revolutionized many investment practices and procedures. This is only logical. What I desire to see is a complete change of investment policy on the part of committees, trustees and individuals responsible for the handling of savings that should earn more than cheap money does.

I should like to suggest to any reader of these lines who has an insurance contract and cheap money out at interest that he write his insurance company asking for (1) a list of the common and preferred stocks held by the company and (2) a statement of the enterprise's policy respecting such investments.

Decisions of far-reaching effects may result. They have in the past. As everybody knows, insurance values are fixed dollar values. Yet money, under the impact of Uncle Sam's borrowing, has become so cheap that insurance companies, under legal sanction, have bought and are buying equity values. And such values are anything but fixed.

Any investor who saves and accumulates dollars and who never buys good stocks is failing to recognize the economic forces that have driven interest rates down to an uneconomic level.

Are all of your savings in dollars? Convert some of them into growing equities. Ask your banker what stocks he buys. If he is a bank director, he is required to own his own shares. And his bank, regardless of its location, will carry reserve accounts in other institutions. Many, if not most, of the bank shares in the leading cities of America pay good dividends and an objective analysis of such equities will reveal their investment quality.

The Forum

(Q) "I have $5,000 to invest. Will you name five industries and five corporations in which I could buy common stocks?"

(A) (1) Utilities (2) oils (3) motors (4) chemicals and (5) banks. Consult your banker or broker in selecting individual stocks. Buy nothing that has not paid regular, dependable dividends from 1928-1953.

He addressed a meeting of the Association Friday at the home of Mrs. Everett Fessenden, and explained the ways in which need for aid is determined.

Mentioning old-age assistance as the largest single expenditure of the Welfare Department, Mr. Fisher said that there are more than 1,000 on the rolls now, costing approximately $60 per person. He added that the blind, widowed and disabled also are recipients of aid after a thorough investigation into circumstances of the persons.

Following Mr. Fisher's talk, tea was served and an informal discussion regarding the welfare and aid topics was continued.

At the business meeting preceding Mr. Fisher's talk, Mrs. Gifford Beal, president, announced that a tea for Foster Mothers would be given by the Association Thursday, April 15, at 2 p. m. at the YWCA.

Good Taste Today

DOES NOT LIKE DOG VISITORS

Today's first letter gives me this advice: "I really do think that you would be doing a great service to many of your readers if you would write something in your column about the people who take their dogs with them everywhere they go. I have in mind one couple in particular who never go anywhere without their dog. It is a shaggy dog and sheds hair all over the house and for days after they've been here I find hairs on my furniture, on the rug and everywhere. It isn't that I dislike dogs, in fact, I have owned several but I never took them into other people's houses with me. Don't you agree with me that dogs should be left at home when one is going visiting? Is there any tactful way of suggesting that such a rule should be enforced?"

To this I think it depends on the breed of dog and obviously on his training. A big shaggy one that quite evidently has been neither thoroughly brushed nor trained to stay at his master's feet, should not be taken into the houses of others. But what to suggest that you do is very baffling, unless you are quite willing to risk losing the friendship of the dog owner and say frankly, "I know I am wrong to get cross, but it upsets me terribly when I have spent hours getting muddy paw marks and hairs not only out of the rugs, but my best furniture, only to have them all tracked up again." According to etiquette this is not correct advice, but for practical result it is the only way to protect your house and save yourself from unceasing work.

'Gezundheit'

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is proper to say "God bless you" or "Gezundheit" after someone sneezes? Several of my friends always say it, but I myself have never been in the habit of saying this. They think I am very rude because I don't. Will you please give me your opinion on this?

Answer: Although it is definitely more friendly to say it than not, if it is not your natural impulse to do so, it might seem an affectation. In no case is it a requirement.

Henry J. Fisher Outlines Welfare Work at Meeting

Henry J. Fisher, superintendent of Public Assistance of the Ulster County Department of Public Welfare, said that through the community organization, the State Charities Aid Association, the needs of the community may be made known. He addressed a meeting of the Association Friday at the home of Mrs. Everett Fessenden, and explained the ways in which need for aid is determined.

Mentioning old-age assistance as the largest single expenditure of the Welfare Department, Mr. Fisher said that there are more than 1,000 on the rolls now, costing approximately $60 per person. He added that the blind, widowed and disabled also are recipients of aid after a thorough investigation into circumstances of the persons.

Following Mr. Fisher's talk, tea was served and an informal discussion regarding the welfare and aid topics was continued.

At the business meeting preceding Mr. Fisher's talk, Mrs. Gifford Beal, president, announced that a tea for Foster Mothers would be given by the Association Thursday, April 15, at 2 p. m. at the YWCA.

Mrs. Milliken, co-chairman, said that Dr. Eugene Link and Mrs. Link of the Family Relations Department of New Paltz Teachers College, would be the principal speakers at the tea. Mrs. Milliken announced several committee heads including Mrs. Everett Fessenden, flowers; Miss Florence Cordts, arrangements; and Miss Eleanor Easton, co-chairman.

Foster Mothers are those who are caring for one or more children as advised by the Welfare Department, and will have an opportunity to discuss problems in child care with Dr. and Mrs. Link during the afternoon.

Good Taste Today

DOES NOT LIKE DOG VISITORS

Today's first letter gives me this advice: "I really do think that you would be doing a great service to many of your readers if you would write something in your column about the people who take their dogs with them everywhere they go. I have in mind one couple in particular who never go anywhere without their dog. It is a shaggy dog and sheds hair all over the house and for days after they've been here I find hairs on my furniture, on the rug and everywhere. It isn't that I dislike dogs, in fact, I have owned several but I never took them into other people's houses with me. Don't you agree with me that dogs should be left at home when one is going visiting? Is there any tactful way of suggesting that such a rule should be enforced?"

To this I think it depends on the breed of dog and obviously on his training. A big shaggy one that quite evidently has been neither thoroughly brushed nor trained to stay at his master's feet, should not be taken into the houses of others. But what to suggest that you do is very baffling, unless you are quite willing to risk losing the friendship of the dog owner and say frankly, "I know I am wrong to get cross, but it upsets me terribly when I have spent hours getting muddy paw marks and hairs not only out of the rugs, but my best furniture, only to have them all tracked up again." According to etiquette this is not correct advice, but for practical result it is the only way to protect your house and save yourself from unceasing work.

'Gezundheit'

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me if it is proper to say "God bless you" or "Gezundheit" after someone sneezes? Several of my friends always say it, but I myself have never been in the habit of saying this. They think I am very rude because I don't. Will you please give me your opinion on this?

Answer: Although it is definitely more friendly to say it than not, if it is not your natural impulse to do so, it might seem an affectation. In no case is it a requirement.

Proposed Pay Hike For Mail Workers Reviewed in Talk

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield in a radio address Friday reviewed the proposed pay increase for the half million postal employes.

In his address he said many injustices in the wages paid postal employes had been found when he took over the office, due largely to five across-the-board pay increases during the past 10 years. These increases were granted regardless of skill or type of job.

Facts of Proposal

Of interest to local postal employes, as well as the public at large, Postmaster General Summerfield gave the following facts regarding the wage proposal before Congress:

"To correct this situation we spent a year in careful study and then as a result of our investigations and experience recently presented a pay and incentive plan to the Congress which will give our postal employes 80 million dollars more in additional wages per year.

Our plan gives immediate increases in pay to 400,000 of our 500,000 employes.

Our plan gives average pay increases of five cents an hour or $100 per year. Some will get more. A few will get less than that.

Our plan widens the differences in pay by skills and degrees of responsibility.

Our plan puts a premium on incentive and rewards ambition and merit.

Our plan does not reduce the salary of any employe now on our payroll.

Some people think that our proposals do not go far enough. Their thinking is reflected in the 20 or more bills now before Congress to raise the pay levels of government employes.

Almost all these bills—however—fail to correct any of the existing inequities or to provide incentives. They call for more of the same flat across-the-board raises with little regard for greater skills or responsibility.

The bill receiving the most attention would give a flat $800 per year increase—or 40 cents an hour or more—to everyone of our half million postal employes. It would cost the American people 400 million dollars a year.

$4,067 Average Salary

Summerfield said the average salary of a regular letter carrier is $4,067 a year with many veteran carriers getting $4,370. Postal clerks get the same. This is an average of $1.96 an hour with a maximum of $2.10, an average of four weeks vacation, 13 days sick leave which if unused can be applied in any following year, and long time employes get as much as five weeks vacation with pay a year.

Under the circumstances Summerfield said he felt the $800-a-year flat increase was not justified.

Man Is Treated For Back Wound; Gun Discharged

Police were notified at 5:03 p. m. Saturday that Joseph R. Scott, 21, who lives at the YMCA, was treated by a doctor for what he reported as an accidental shot wound in the back.

Officers Gurnsey Burger, Jr., and Charles McCullough, who investigated, brought the young man to police headquarters, where he reported that he had been out target practicing in the lowlands and was returning with the .22 calibre rifle over his shoulder when it accidentally discharged.

Scott said he had been walking with the barrel pointed toward the ground. The rifle slipped as he went down a small incline, he told authorities. He was attempting to adjust it to position when it went off, he said, the trigger releasing as the rifle brushed his body. The pellet broke skin, but did not imbed itself in the flesh on the lower part of the back, the report said.

Man Is Treated For Back Wound; Gun Discharged

Police were notified at 5:03 p. m. Saturday that Joseph R. Scott, 21, who lives at the YMCA, was treated by a doctor for what he reported as an accidental shot wound in the back.

Officers Gurnsey Burger, Jr., and Charles McCullough, who investigated, brought the young man to police headquarters, where he reported that he had been out target practicing in the lowlands and was returning with the .22 calibre rifle over his shoulder when it accidentally discharged.

Scott said he had been walking with the barrel pointed toward the ground. The rifle slipped as he went down a small incline, he told authorities. He was attempting to adjust it to position when it went off, he said, the trigger releasing as the rifle brushed his body. The pellet broke skin, but did not imbed itself in the flesh on the lower part of the back, the report said.

CONSTIPATED?

Then read how Frank Della Penna of Holyoke, Mass. gets real relief!

"I'd been troubled with constipation for quite a while. But most of the laxatives I'd tried were either too harsh or too slow.

"Then, I heard about Sal Hepatica from a friend—and now I'm sold on it for life! I tell you, it really does the trick. Now when I get that logy, constipated feeling in the evening, I take Sal Hepatica a half hour before dinner, and I feel fine again by bedtime!"

Yes, take sparkling Sal Hepatica before breakfast and feel fine again . . . usually within an hour. Or, take in the evening one-half hour before supper and feel fine again by bedtime! Sweetens sour stomach, too! So keep Sal Hepatica handy in your medicine chest.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Didya ever stop to think what a laugh it would be if we grew heaps of coffee in the U. S.? Then we'd have coffee senators and coffee congressmen and the "coffee vote" rigging the price.

Mr. Hutton

Would they vote any different than the wheat and cotton senators and the cheese congressmen? Would coffee be a cent cheaper than it is today if we grew a million bushels here at home?

Cock-eyed, eh? The only difference is that Brazilians don't vote in American elections. So we charge them with rigging the market.

A frost in Brazil made the supply short and the price high. But here we have a glut of butter and the price stays high. Storage warehouses here do to butter and wheat what frost did to coffee in Brazil.

Are we a bit better off with all these Government cartels forcing prices up?

Coffee should be a good lesson to us. Some day, when we have priced American goods out of world markets, and gone broke with all these Government subsidies, we may learn that nobody—not even Truman, nor any President —can repeal the law of Supply and Demand, and keep it repealed!

largely a matter of sitting tight and allowing declarer to develop his tricks without any help from your side. Sometimes, however, it isn't enough to just sit tight; you must take some positive action to stay out of trouble. In today's hand the defense collapsed because East allowed himself to fall into difficulties.

West's decision not to open a spade was wise, since a spade lead would have given declarer two tricks in that suit and an easy play for his game contract. A diamond opening lead would have been best for the defenders, but West actually chose to open the five of hearts.

East won with the ace and returned a low heart, hoping that his partner had led from strength, even though it seemed most unlikely.

South won the second trick with the king of hearts and immediately ran his four club tricks, hoping that the opponents would be embarrassed for discards. East discarded the jack of diamonds and then a heart, and West could then well afford to spare a low diamond.

South could tell that the king of diamonds was in the East hand, and that his play for a ninth trick was very sketchy. Hoping for some sort of end-play, South cashed the queen of hearts and then led a spade towards dummy's queen. West properly played low, and dummy's queen of spades won the trick.

East should have hastened to drop the jack of spades under the queen. Instead, he woodenly played his low spade and was therefore compelled to play the jack of spades when the suit was returned from the dummy. South naturally played low, and West couldn't afford to overtake with the ace Consequently East's jack of spades held the trick.

Now East was in trouble. He could cash his last heart, but then he had to lead away from his king of diamonds, permitting declarer to win a trick with dummy's queen as well as with his own ace.

Airmen Help on Washday

Margate, England (AP)—In East Kent, which has more weather than it does climate, English housewives appreciate the fact that the U. S. Air Base at Manston is so obliging. They phone the base's meteorological station before making washday plans. Sometimes they ask how warmly they should dress their children for school. Margate's sailing club frequently calls for information about winds and the height of waves in the Thames Estuary. The airmen are happy to give the information, but sometimes they are puzzled. For instance, a man called recently and asked: "Will the wind be strong enough tonight to blow down my TV aerial."

Names in Competition

Goodyear, Conn. (AP)—The Rogers Corp. wants the Post Office Dept. to change the name of this village, named after the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. It proposed that it be called "Rogers." Goodyear once had a plant here. The factory is now occupied by the Rogers Corp. The firms are competitors.

The architect is expected to meet soon with Frank Bugar.

It was noted that with three units feeding into the high school the public must be alerted to the need of a larger high school building as well as an elementary school.

Consideration was given to the transportation problem of Guilford school.

Recommendation was given by Superintendent Ralph Johnson that all teachers attend a teachers' health meeting in Onteora, May 6-7, to be acted upon by Mr. Bugar.

CONSTIPATED?

Then read how Frank Della Penna of Holyoke, Mass. gets real relief!

"I'd been troubled with constipation for quite a while. But most of the laxatives I'd tried were either too harsh or too slow.

"Then, I heard about Sal Hepatica from a friend—and now I'm sold on it for life! I tell you, it really does the trick. Now when I get that logy, constipated feeling in the evening, I take Sal Hepatica a half hour before dinner, and I feel fine again by bedtime!"

Yes, take sparkling Sal Hepatica before breakfast and feel fine again . . . usually within an hour. Or, take in the evening one-half hour before supper and feel fine again by bedtime! Sweetens sour stomach, too! So keep Sal Hepatica handy in your medicine chest.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Mr. Hutton

Didya ever stop to think what a laugh it would be if we grew heaps of coffee in the U. S.? Then we'd have coffee senators and coffee congressmen and the "coffee vote" rigging the price.

Would they vote any different than the wheat and cotton senators and the cheese congressmen? Would coffee be a cent cheaper than it is today if we grew a million bushels here at home?

Cock-eyed, eh? The only difference is that Brazilians don't vote in American elections. So we charge them with rigging the market.

A frost in Brazil made the supply short and the price high. But here we have a glut of butter and the price stays high. Storage warehouses here do to butter and wheat what frost did to coffee in Brazil.

And our Government rigs up the price of labor and tolerates featherbedding, another kind of frost.

Are we a bit better off with all these Government cartels forcing prices up?

Coffee should be a good lesson to us. Some day, when we have priced American goods out of world markets, and gone broke with all these Government subsidies, we may learn that nobody—not even Truman, nor any President—can repeal the law of Supply and Demand, and keep it repealed!

largely a matter of sitting tight and allowing declarer to develop his tricks without any help from your side. Sometimes, however, it isn't enough to just sit tight; you must take some positive action to stay out of trouble. In today's hand the defense collapsed because East allowed himself to fall into difficulties.

West's decision not to open a spade was wise, since a spade lead would have given declarer two tricks in that suit and an easy play for his game contract. A diamond opening lead would have been best for the defenders, but West actually chose to open the five of hearts.

East won with the ace and returned a low heart, hoping that his partner had led from strength, even though it seemed most unlikely.

South won the second trick with the king of hearts and immediately ran his four club tricks, hoping that the opponents would be embarrassed for discards. East discarded the jack of diamonds and then a heart, and West could then well afford to spare a low diamond.

South could tell that the king of diamonds was in the East hand, and that his play for a ninth trick was very sketchy. Hoping for some sort of end-play, South cashed the queen of hearts and then led a spade towards dummy's queen. West properly played low, and dummy's queen of spades won the trick.

East should have hastened to drop the jack of spades under the queen. Instead, he woodenly played his low spade and was therefore compelled to play the jack of spades when the suit was returned from the dummy. South naturally played low, and West couldn't afford to overtake with the ace. Consequently East's jack of spades held the trick.

Now East was in trouble. He could cash his last heart, but then he had to lead away from his king of diamonds, permitting declarer to win a trick with dummy's queen as well as with his own ace.

Poughkeepsie Cabs Cinch Hudson Valley Bowling League Flag

Win Three Sets From Rapp Five In Crucial Match

Dick Howard Shoots 705 for Jones Dairy

The Cabs won their title in championship style, knocking off a 3022 series on game slams of 981, 1022 and 1019.

The sweep enabled them to finish with a brilliant record of 73 wins and 17 losses for the 90-game campaign and a final margin of a game and a half over Jones Dairy, who failed in their bid for a repeat.

Jones Dairy, rolling on adjoining alleys, stood by helplessly as Rapp's failed to muster a threat. The Expressmen failed to negotiate a "900" game and rolled a dismal 2589.

The Dairymen, pressing at the start against the lowly Poughkeepsie Academy, pulled the first game out of the fire with a late spree for 1012 and then went on to pile up 1154 and 1096 for a 3262 series.

Howard Shoots 705

Dick Howard finished with a hefty 705 that sent his average above the 201 mark. He fired a pair of 258s after a 189 opener. Johnny Ferraro tripled 698 to wind up with 212-plus, highest figure in the league's history.

Cabbies started slowly against Rapp's but found the range near the end for a 981. Sparked by George Baird's 244, the Bridge City keglers quickly grabbed command in the second set and poured on a 1022 games, then 1019 in the finale.

Baird led with 668 on solos of 175, 244 and 267. Fran Hauver hit 225-609 and Jake Charter bombed 205-233-621. Phil Versace, runner-up to Ferraro in the individual averages, shot 569.

Ken Joseph's 559 led Rapp's.

Larry Weishaupt totalled 628 despite six misses for Jones Dairy. Harold Broskie fired 234-238-664. Yoemans toppled 222-201-244-672 and Joe Avello 231-603 for the Academy.

Captain Dick Rhea of the Cabs injected a sentimental note into the Cab-Rapp's fray when he removed himself from the lineup after the second game and substituted Charlie Cruzan, a star of another golden era in Poughkeepsie bowling.

The annual banquet is scheduled Saturday, April 24, at the Capri.

Babe Zaharias Plans Retirement After Two Tourneys

Carrollton, Ga., April 5 (AP)—Babe Zaharias lost the Carrollton Women's Open golf tournament yesterday in a close finish with Louise Suggs and then announced she will quit competitive golf after two more tournaments.

"I'm through after two more tournaments, the New Orleans tournament and the Babe Zaharias Open in Beaumont, Tex.," she said.

The Babe added that losing the Carrollton tournament had nothing to do with her decision to withdraw from competition.

"No, I'm not just upset after falling down here," she said.

"I mean it. I'm through. I'm tired, just simply worn out. I can't stand this sort of thing week after week like I used to."

She did not mention her cancer operation more than a year ago and said nothing about the present condition of her health.

A native of Beaumont, she and her husband now make their home in Tampa, Fla., she will be 39 June 26.

The Babe finished the Carrollton tournament in third place with 220.

Mikan Scores 30 Points in Laker Victory

Syracuse, April 5 (AP)—The Minneapolis Lakers today held a 2-1 edge over injury-riddled Syracuse in their quest for a fifth National Basketball Association championship in six years thanks to the chips-down playing of the old maestro, George Mikan.

It was Mikan's 30 points and his command of the backboards last night that paced the Lakers to an 81-67 victory over the Nationals in the world series of pro basketball.

Mikan has been the subject of some retirement talk although Big George and Coach Johnny Kundla insist he has a couple of good seasons left.

Mikan looked like anything but the retiring kind last night as 8,719 onlookers watched him score 13 points, nine of them on 3-point plays, in the third period when Minneapolis built up a 58-44 advantage. Altogether he dropped in 11 field goals and eight of nine free throw attempts.

Syracuse, hobbled by injuries all through the playoffs, loomed as a serious threat to end the western division's uninterrupted domination of the eastern sector in the title round by edging the Lakers 62-60 Saturday at Minneapolis. That evened the series at 1-all.

Schreiver 265 High

H. Schreiver set a new high single record of 265 in the Chalet Leaders League in Rosendale last week. The big blast followed solos of 179 and 139 for a 583 series.

Other scoring leaders included G. De Felicis 214-522, V. Kuhn 201-518, E. McCaffrey 518, Clary Buddenhagen 515, E. Myers 503.

Team results:

Ruens 2, Van Kleecks 1; Siors 2, Yonnettis 1; Aqueduct 2, Vaughns 1; Zimmers 3, Duffys (0) forfeit; Quicks 2, Marbletown 1; Schryver 1, Rosendale Florist 2.

Tiger Jones Favored

New York, April 5 (AP)—The "Tiger" is favored to claw the "Wildcat" at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena tonight. Ralph (Tiger) Jones, the sturdy Yonkers middleweight who earned a No. 4 ranking by flattening Bobby Dykes a month ago, figures to have too much experience and punching power for Wildcat Billy McNeece of New York. Dumont telecasts the ten rounder at 10 p. m., EST.

Worst Aid Demonstrated

Philadelphia (AP)—Boy Scouts holding at their pow-wow here came up with an act called "worst aid"—a demonstration of all the wrong ways to give first aid.

A local basketball vendetta is resolved in the Kingston tournament tonight when Harry's Angels, YMCA "A" champions meet Haber's Grill in the 7:30 p. m. opener at the municipal auditorium.

Heavy local interest in the game is expected to attract the largest crowd to date. The winner moves into the semi-finals.

Haber's (the KHS squad intact) holds a 2-1 edge over the Angels but all three contests have been close and they are only slight favorites to win tonight.

In the 8:30 contest, Monticello Chiefs meet the injury-riddled McAuleys of Poughkeepsie. Richie Moran, top scorer, will be missing from the McAuley lineup. Bob Masten, rugged center, is also a question mark.

Harry's will go with an all-local lineup made up of "Champ" Holstein and Bill Kleine at the forwards; Bill East, center; Ward Dunham and Eric Georcke in the backcourt.

Jim Riehl, former KHS backcourt star, joins with Skip Brodhead, John Godwin, Bill Haber and Dick Bezemer in the Haber lineup.

Beat Lincoln Center

The Grills engaged in a tuneup game Sunday, scoring a 70-52 victory over Lincoln Center at Poughkeepsie.

It was a tough game until Haber's ran away with a 26-point fourth period. High scorer was Bill Haber with 20 points, fourteen from the charity stripe. Dick Bezemer rimmed 17.

In the second game of the doubleheader for the Lincoln Center fund, the Poughkeepsie All Stars nipped the New England Collegians, 82-81, on Bob Martin's deuce in the last three seconds.

The All Stars trailed 45-64 at the head of the stretch but Johnny Cottrill poured 18 points in the last period.

Porky Viera, Qunniepac College scoring wizard, who was second to Bevo Francis in small-college scoring in the country this season, led the losers with 28 points.

Reibel Sparks Red Wing Win Over Canucks

Detroit, April 5 (AP)—Dutch Reibel, a rookie flash who faded, was out of the doghouse today after shooting the Detroit Red Wings to victory in the opening game of the Stanley Cup hockey finals.

Benched because of ineffective, lack-lustre play, Reibel set up one goal and scored the winner as the Red Wings cooled the Montreal Canadiens 3-1 last night to get the jump in the best-of-seven series.

His game-winner came at 1:52 of the final period. The teams were locked in a 1-1 tie when Dollard St. Laurent, Montreal defenseman, was caught for board checking.

Reibel got his chance to play, and made the most of it. He golfed a screaming 50-foot blur into the nets to crack the tie and hand the Canadiens their first loss in five playoff games. They had swept through Boston in four straight in the semi-finals.

Defenseman Red Kelly clinched Detroit's vital victory by scoring at 7:13 of the third period—this time while Detroit was a man short.

Reibel set up Detroit's first goal in the opening period. He golfed a similar 50-foot shot but it was a little wide. Capt. Lindsay straightened it out, deflecting the puck into the net at the 13:44 mark.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion scored Montreal's lone goal at 12:16 of the second period.

Poughkeepsie Cabs Cinch Hudson Valley Bowling League Flag

Dick Howard Shoots 705 for Jones Dairy

Poughkeepsie Cabs nailed down the first Hudson Valley League bowling championship ever won by a Bridge City squad, by sweeping three games from Rapp's Express before a huge crowd Saturday night at the Bowlodrome.

The Cabs won their title in championship style, knocking off a 3022 series on game slams of 981, 1022 and 1019.

The sweep enabled them to finish with a brilliant record of 73 wins and 17 losses for the 90-game campaign and a final margin of a game and a half over Jones Dairy, who failed in their bid for a repeat.

Jones Dairy, rolling on adjoining alleys, stood by helplessly as Rapp's failed to muster a threat. The Expressmen failed to negotiate a "900" game and rolled a dismal 2589.

The Dairymen, pressing at the start against the lowly Poughkeepsie Academy, pulled the first game out of the fire with a late spree for 1012 and then went on to pile up 1154 and 1096 for a 3262 series.

Howard Shoots 705

Dick Howard finished with a hefty 705 that sent his average above the 201 mark. He fired a pair of 258s after a 189 opener. Johnny Ferraro tripled 698 to wind up with 212-plus, highest figure in the league's history.

Cabbies started slowly against Rapp's but found the range near the end for a 981. Sparked by George Baird's 244, the Bridge City keglers quickly grabbed command in the second set and poured on a 1022 games, then 1019 in the finale.

Baird led with 668 on solos of 175, 244 and 267. Fran Hauver hit 225-609 and Jake Charter bombed 205-233-621. Phil Versace, runner-up to Ferraro in the individual averages, shot 569.

Ken Joseph's 559 led Rapp's.

Larry Weishaupt totalled 628 despite six misses for Jones Dairy. Harold Broskie fired 234-238-664. Yoemans toppled 222-201-244-672 and Joe Avello 231-603 for the Academy.

Captain Dick Rhea of the Cabs injected a sentimental note into the Cab-Rapp's fray when he removed himself from the lineup after the second game and substituted Charlie Cruzan, a star of another golden era in Poughkeepsie bowling.

The annual banquet is scheduled Saturday, April 24, at the Capri.

Babe Zaharias Plans Retirement After Two Tourneys

Carrollton, Ga., April 5 (AP)—Babe Zaharias lost the Carrollton Women's Open golf tournament yesterday in a close finish with Louise Suggs and then announced she will quit competitive golf after two more tournaments.

"I'm through after two more tournaments, the New Orleans tournament and the Babe Zaharias Open in Beaumont, Tex.," she said.

The Babe added that losing the Carrollton tournament had nothing to do with her decision to withdraw from competition.

"No, I'm not just upset after falling down here," she said.

"I mean it. I'm through. I'm tired, just simply worn out. I can't stand this sort of thing week after week like I used to."

She did not mention her cancer operation more than a year ago and said nothing about the present condition of her health.

A native of Beaumont, she and her husband now make their home in Tampa, Fla., she will be 39 June 26.

The Babe finished the Carrollton tournament in third place with 220.

Mikan Scores 30 Points in Laker Victory

Syracuse, April 5 (AP)—The Minneapolis Lakers today held a 2-1 edge over injury-riddled Syracuse in their quest for a fifth National Basketball Association championship in six years thanks to the chips-down playing of the old maestro, George Mikan.

It was Mikan's 30 points and his command of the backboards last night that paced the Lakers to an 81-67 victory over the Nationals in the world series of pro basketball.

Mikan has been the subject of some retirement talk although Big George and Coach Johnny Kundla insist he has a couple of good seasons left.

Mikan looked like anything but the retiring kind last night as 8,719 onlookers watched him score 13 points, nine of them on 3-point plays, in the third period when Minneapolis built up a 58-44 advantage. Altogether he dropped in 11 field goals and eight of nine free throw attempts.

Syracuse, hobbled by injuries all through the playoffs, loomed as a serious threat to end the western division's uninterrupted domination of the eastern sector in the title round by edging the Lakers 62-60 Saturday at Minneapolis. That evened the series at 1-all.

Schreiver 265 High

H. Schreiver set a new high single record of 265 in the Chalet Leaders League in Rosendale last week. The big blast followed solos of 179 and 139 for a 583 series.

Other scoring leaders included G. De Felicis 214-522, V. Kuhn 201-518, E. McCaffrey 518, Clary Buddenhagen 515, E. Myers 503.

Team results:

Ruens 2, Van Kleecks 1; Siors 2, Yonnettis 1; Aqueduct 2, Vaughns 1; Zimmers 3, Duffys (0) forfeit; Quicks 2, Marbletown 1; Schryver 1, Rosendale Florist 2.

Tiger Jones Favored

New York, April 5 (AP)—The "Tiger" is favored to claw the "Wildcat" at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena tonight. Ralph (Tiger) Jones, the sturdy Yonkers middleweight who earned a No. 4 ranking by flattening Bobby Dykes a month ago, figures to have too much experience and punching power for Wildcat Billy McNeece of New York. Dumont telecasts the ten rounder at 10 p. m., EST.

Worst Aid Demonstrated

Philadelphia (AP)—Boy Scouts holding at their pow-wow here came up with an act called "worst aid"—a demonstration of all the wrong ways to give first aid.

A local basketball vendetta is resolved in the Kingston tournament tonight when Harry's Angels, YMCA "A" champions meet Haber's Grill in the 7:30 p. m. opener at the municipal auditorium.

Heavy local interest in the game is expected to attract the largest crowd to date. The winner moves into the semi-finals.

Haber's (the KHS squad intact) holds a 2-1 edge over the Angels but all three contests have been close and they are only slight favorites to win tonight.

In the 8:30 contest, Monticello Chiefs meet the injury-riddled McAuleys of Poughkeepsie. Richie Moran, top scorer, will be missing from the McAuley lineup. Bob Masten, rugged center, is also a question mark.

Harry's will go with an all-local lineup made up of "Champ" Holstein and Bill Kleine at the forwards; Bill East, center; Ward Dunham and Eric Georcke in the backcourt.

Jim Riehl, former KHS backcourt star, joins with Skip Brodhead, John Godwin, Bill Haber and Dick Bezemer in the Haber lineup.

Beat Lincoln Center

The Grills engaged in a tuneup game Sunday, scoring a 70-52 victory over Lincoln Center at Poughkeepsie.

It was a tough game until Haber's ran away with a 26-point fourth period. High scorer was Bill Haber with 20 points, fourteen from the charity stripe. Dick Bezemer rimmed 17.

In the second game of the doubleheader for the Lincoln Center fund, the Poughkeepsie All Stars nipped the New England Collegians, 82-81, on Bob Martin's deuce in the last three seconds.

The All Stars trailed 45-64 at the head of the stretch but Johnny Cottrill poured 18 points in the last period.

Porky Viera, Qunniepac College scoring wizard, who was second to Bevo Francis in small-college scoring in the country this season, led the losers with 28 points.

Reibel Sparks Red Wing Win Over Canucks

Detroit, April 5 (AP)—Dutch Reibel, a rookie flash who faded, was out of the doghouse today after shooting the Detroit Red Wings to victory in the opening game of the Stanley Cup hockey finals.

Benched because of ineffective, lack-lustre play, Reibel set up one goal and scored the winner as the Red Wings cooled the Montreal Canadiens 3-1 last night to get the jump in the best-of-seven series.

His game-winner came at 1:52 of the final period. The teams were locked in a 1-1 tie when Dollard St. Laurent, Montreal defenseman, was caught for board checking.

Reibel got his chance to play, and made the most of it. He golfed a screaming 50-foot blur into the nets to crack the tie and hand the Canadiens their first loss in five playoff games. They had swept through Boston in four straight in the semi-finals.

Defenseman Red Kelly clinched Detroit's vital victory by scoring at 7:13 of the third period—this time while Detroit was a man short.

Reibel set up Detroit's first goal in the opening period. He golfed a similar 50-foot shot but it was a little wide. Capt. Lindsay straightened it out, deflecting the puck into the net at the 13:44 mark.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion scored Montreal's lone goal at 12:16 of the second period.

Boston's Harry Agganis Chooses Majors Over Pro Football Career

By ED CORRIGAN
(AP Sports Writer)

Harry Agganis, the Golden Greek from Boston University, found himself in a peculiar spot a year ago. He was having trouble deciding whether to join the National Football League or take a try at professional baseball.

Even two days ago, he probably wasn't quite sure. But today Harry cast his lot with the Boston Red Sox and with only one year of professional experience behind him, he looms as at least the part-time first baseman for Lou Boudreau's outfit.

"And," said Boudreau, "if he happens to go on a hot batting streak, he may play all the time. Harry has shown me enough now. He has made my team. He'll start at first base against all righthanders. I know he hit lefhanders well at Louisville in the American Association last year, but they might be a little rough on him in the majors."

Right now, the 23-year-old Harry is hitting .323 against major league pitching on the Grapefruit Circuit. If he makes out, the Red Sox will have more than realized the $30,000 bonus they paid him in 1952.

Is Star Sunday

Agganis won yesterday's ball game for the Red Sox when he drove in two runs in their 3-2 victory over Atlanta of the Southern Association. The crepe hangers may have tacked up their paper prematurely because this club is doing right well without Ted Williams and Jim Piersall, its two big guns. It shows a 16-10 exhibition record good enough for second place in the American League.

The amazing Bob Friend and his equally amazing Pittsburgh Pirate mates continued their rampage by shutting out the Philadelphia A's 2-0. Friend held the A's to four hits and now has tossed 19 straight scoreless innings.

Yanks Save Face

With two out in the ninth inning, the New York Yankees scored seven runs and thereby saved themselves the ignominy of being beaten by Savannah of the Sally League. The final was 11-9.

While the Yanks pulled their game out, the Philadelphia Phillies couldn't do a thing and were set down with four hits, 2-1, by Jack Urban of the Birmingham Barons of the Southern Association.

The Milwaukee Braves whipped the Brooklyn Dodgers 18-14 in a three-hour contest. Eddie Mathews, the major league's home run king last year, hit his fifth round tripper in as many days.

The Chicago White Sox scored three times in the eighth inning to turn back the St. Louis Cardinals 8-5.

Wally Westlake hit a home run and a double to lead the Cleveland Indians to an 8-4 victory over the New York Giants.

The Chicago Cubs thumped the Baltimore Orioles 10-2 with a seven-run outburst in the seventh and the Redlegs downed the Washington Senators 10-4 with Wally Post, who couldn't make the team last year, leading the assault with a three-run homer, two doubles and a single.

Buffalo Kegler State Singles Leader With 711

Utica, April 5 (AP)—Martin Lawandus of Buffalo today held the lead in singles competition at the New York State men's bowling tournament.

Lawandus had a 99-pin handicap added to the 612 pins he toppled in early strings of the annual competition, which opened Saturday. His single-game scores were 186, 184 and 242.

The tourney is scheduled to run through the middle of May.

Connie Macks No. 1 of Syracuse led the team competition with 3074 pins.

Ed Simon and Walter Stotz of Rochester paced the doubles race with 1,349 pins, and in the all events bracket, Robert Glass of Rochester led J. Dilullo of Rochester, 1,923 to 1,922.

Some of the vandalism perpetrated at the Little League's 156th FA diamond, ostensibly by youngsters, points up why some older folks can't even be dragged into youth sports promotion.

The diamond and permanent stadium at Manor avenue represent a lot of hard work, donations, contributions, interest and supervision by many people, who had the best interests of young people at heart. Particularly those in the Little League baseball age group.

If they feel let down and slightly chagrined today, it's understandable. They have only to view the recent shocking examples of vandalism at the LL park. In their mischievous enthusiasm, the persons responsible for the damage inflicted on the park spared nothing.

Many of the boards (1" x 8") on the left field fence were either torn or kicked off and left strewn on the playing field. Some of these boards were broken so that they could not be put back to use and had to be replaced. The result was several holes or gaps in the fence eight inches to five feet wide.

Much debris was thrown into the dugouts and one concrete block was removed and broken to pieces. The block was two blocks from the end section so that it obviously required a lot of work and misdirected purpose to loosen and remove it. A couple of the end blocks were broken and removed and some of the blocks inside the dugout were deliberately chipped.

The vandals didn't even respect the metal flag pole which rises just outside the centerfield fence. The top section was dismantled and thrown over the playing field. The rope and pulley are missing.

An entire section of the bleachers was moved out of position (this required some manpower) and several parts of the bleachers (planking which serves as seats) were also removed. This had to be done by loosening several clamps underneath the planks. These parts were dropped around at random and two of these were placed on end, one on either side of the blackstop so that they extended into the air several feet above the backstop.

The tool shed behind the grandstand has been the target of vandals on several occasions. A bag of lime used for marking the base lines was opened and the contents scattered over the interior of the shed. The shed is storage space for shovels, rakes, base line, marking machine, playing records for the PA and other equipment that is needed to operate the Little League.

Some of these operations were obviously beyond the deviltry of one or two people. It required considerable energy to perpetrate some of those misdemeanors.

The field was built in 1952 with virtually all labor and building material donated by interested local citizens. Through the efforts of Col. Frank W. Harkin, commander of the 156th FA, the Little League Association was able to lease the parcel of land for a nominal sum from National Guard authorities. Anyone who trespasses on this property is subject to arrest since it is government property. The military authorities have voiced their displeasure with the conduct of the persons who loiter in that area.

As President William R. Scully points out, the Little League Association is not hostile toward any children as is evidenced by the LLA's untiring efforts in the promotion of Little League baseball. However, the LLA does not expect that people will wilfully do damage to the organization's property and plans.

Each team in the Little League has an adult manager and at least one coach. These supervisors do not receive any remuneration, nor do the officers of the association. The umpires donate their services without pay. The time and effort put in this project by the officers and men who make it possible is staggering.

The program is a worthy one and it has proved successful in the community. Incidents such as those which reduced the Little League field to a shambles are regrettable. It makes you wonder what kind of people are these who reap enjoyment from tearing down the work of others.

One of the standby arguments of some oldies is that "nobody ever did anything for me when I was a kid. . . ." So they quickly reject and resist any effort to align them in youth sports movements. It would be a sad world, indeed, if everybody reasoned in that fashion. But sometimes you wonder, if ever so briefly, if maybe they don't have something.

Wards Add McAn Line of Men's Shoes

The nationally known Thom McAn line of men's shoes has been added to the Montgomery Ward retail store here, it was announced today by Joseph McCaffrey, manager of Ward's shoes department. The line features a wide assortment of styles ranging from custom-toe oxfords for business or dress to flexible loungers for casual wear.

The Thom McAn Company rates fifth in net sales in the entire shoe industry and is one of the largest manufacturer-retailers in the country, McCaffrey said. The McAn shoes "are worn by more men in America than any other brand at this price," he said.

Detroit Retains City Hall

Detroit (AP)—Because it would cost about as much to tear it down as it did to build it, Detroit's old, solid stone City Hall will continue overlooking Cadillac Square, the Motor City's hub. It cost $500,000 80 years ago. Government offices will move to a new 20-story city-county building on the riverfront, but the City Plan Commission recommends that City Hall be kept and used as a reception headquarters for royalty and heroes, a parade reviewing stand, and other ceremonial events. City Council agrees.

Boston's Harry Agganis Chooses Majors Over Pro Football Career

By ED CORRIGAN
(AP Sports Writer)

Harry Agganis, the Golden Greek from Boston University, found himself in a peculiar spot a year ago. He was having trouble deciding whether to join the National Football League or take a try at professional baseball.

Even two days ago, he probably wasn't quite sure. But today Harry cast his lot with the Boston Red Sox and with only one year of professional experience behind him, he looms as at least the part-time first baseman for Lou Boudreau's outfit.

"And," said Boudreau, "if he happens to go on a hot batting streak, he may play all the time. Harry has shown me enough now. He has made my team. He'll start at first base against all righthanders. I know he hit lefhanders well at Louisville in the American Association last year, but they might be a little rough on him in the majors."

Right now, the 23-year-old Harry is hitting .323 against major league pitching on the Grapefruit Circuit. If he makes out, the Red Sox will have more than realized the $30,000 bonus they paid him in 1952.

Is Star Sunday

Agganis won yesterday's ball game for the Red Sox when he drove in two runs in their 3-2 victory over Atlanta of the Southern Association. The crepe hangers may have tacked up their paper prematurely because this club is doing right well without Ted Williams and Jim Piersall, its two big guns. It shows a 16-10 exhibition record good enough for second place in the American League.

The amazing Bob Friend and his equally amazing Pittsburgh Pirate mates continued their rampage by shutting out the Philadelphia A's 2-0. Friend held the A's to four hits and now has tossed 19 straight scoreless innings.

Yanks Save Face

With two out in the ninth inning, the New York Yankees scored seven runs and thereby saved themselves the ignominy of being beaten by Savannah of the Sally League. The final was 11-9.

While the Yanks pulled their game out, the Philadelphia Phillies couldn't do a thing and were set down with four hits, 2-1, by Jack Urban of the Birmingham Barons of the Southern Association.

The Milwaukee Braves whipped the Brooklyn Dodgers 18-14 in a three-hour contest. Eddie Mathews, the major league's home run king last year, hit his fifth round tripper in as many days.

The Chicago White Sox scored three times in the eighth inning to turn back the St. Louis Cardinals 8-5.

Wally Westlake hit a home run and a double to lead the Cleveland Indians to an 8-4 victory over the New York Giants.

The Chicago Cubs thumped the Baltimore Orioles 10-2 with a seven-run outburst in the seventh and the Redlegs downed the Washington Senators 10-4 with Wally Post, who couldn't make the team last year, leading the assault with a three-run homer, two doubles and a single.

Buffalo Kegler State Singles Leader With 711

Utica, April 5 (AP)—Martin Lawandus of Buffalo today held the lead in singles competition at the New York State men's bowling tournament.

Lawandus had a 99-pin handicap added to the 612 pins he toppled in early strings of the annual competition, which opened Saturday. His single-game scores were 186, 184 and 242.

The tourney is scheduled to run through the middle of May.

Connie Macks No. 1 of Syracuse led the team competition with 3074 pins.

Ed Simon and Walter Stotz of Rochester paced the doubles race with 1,349 pins, and in the all events bracket, Robert Glass of Rochester led J. Dilullo of Rochester, 1,923 to 1,922.

SPORTS

Some of the vandalism perpetrated at the Little League's 156th FA diamond, ostensibly by youngsters, points up why some older folks can't even be dragged into youth sports promotion.

The diamond and permanent stadium at Manor avenue represent a lot of hard work, donations, contributions, interest and supervision by many people, who had the best interests of young people at heart. Particularly those in the Little League baseball age group.

If they feel let down and slightly chagrined today, it's understandable. They have only to view the recent shocking examples of vandalism at the LL park. In their mischievous enthusiasm, the persons responsible for the damage inflicted on the park spared nothing.

Many of the boards (1" x 8") on the left field fence were either torn or kicked off and left strewn on the playing field. Some of these boards were broken so that they could not be put back to use and had to be replaced. The result was several holes or gaps in the fence eight inches to five feet wide.

Much debris was thrown into the dugouts and one concrete block was removed and broken to pieces. The block was two blocks from the end section so that it obviously required a lot of work and misdirected purpose to loosen and remove it. A couple of the end blocks were broken and removed and some of the blocks inside the dugout were deliberately chipped.

The vandals didn't even respect the metal flag pole which rises just outside the centerfield fence. The top section was dismantled and thrown over the playing field. The rope and pulley are missing.

An entire section of the bleachers was moved out of position (this required some manpower) and several parts of the bleachers (planking which serves as seats) were also removed. This had to be done by loosening several clamps underneath the planks. These parts were dropped around at random and two of these were placed on end, one on either side of the blackstop so that they extended into the air several feet above the backstop.

The tool shed behind the grandstand has been the target of vandals on several occasions. A bag of lime used for marking the base lines was opened and the contents scattered over the interior of the shed. The shed is storage space for shovels, rakes, base line, marking machine, playing records for the PA and other equipment that is needed to operate the Little League.

Some of these operations were obviously beyond the deviltry of one or two people. It required considerable energy to perpetrate some of those misdemeanors.

The field was built in 1952 with virtually all labor and building material donated by interested local citizens. Through the efforts of Col. Frank W. Harkin, commander of the 156th FA, the Little League Association was able to lease the parcel of land for a nominal sum from National Guard authorities. Anyone who trespasses on this property is subject to arrest since it is government property. The military authorities have voiced their displeasure with the conduct of the persons who loiter in that area.

As President William R. Scully points out, the Little League Association is not hostile toward any children as is evidenced by the LLA's untiring efforts in the promotion of Little League baseball. However, the LLA does not expect that people will wilfully do damage to the organization's property and plans.

Each team in the Little League has an adult manager and at least one coach. These supervisors do not receive any remuneration, nor do the officers of the association. The umpires donate their services without pay. The time and effort put in this project by the officers and men who make it possible is staggering.

The program is a worthy one and it has proved successful in the community. Incidents such as those which reduced the Little League field to a shambles are regrettable. It makes you wonder what kind of people are these who reap enjoyment from tearing down the work of others.

One of the standby arguments of some oldies is that "nobody ever did anything for me when I was a kid. . . ." So they quickly reject and resist any effort to align them in youth sports movements. It would be a sad world, indeed, if everybody reasoned in that fashion. But sometimes you wonder, if ever so briefly, if maybe they don't have something.

Wards Add McAn Line of Men's Shoes

The nationally known Thom McAn line of men's shoes has been added to the Montgomery Ward retail store here, it was announced today by Joseph McCaffrey, manager of Ward's shoes department. The line features a wide assortment of styles ranging from custom-toe oxfords for business or dress to flexible loungers for casual wear.

The Thom McAn Company rates fifth in net sales in the entire shoe industry and is one of the largest manufacturer-retailers in the country, McCaffrey said. The McAn shoes "are worn by more men in America than any other brand at this price," he said.

28 Reds Arrested

Seoul, April 5 (AP)—South Korea's army counter-intelligence corps said today 28 Communist spies have been arrested in the past two months—20 of them in one espionage ring. The announcements did not report their fate.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

From time to time local residents give talks on local history and because of their personal research are able to add just a little more to the general information of Kingston. I found a reprint of part of a talk given by Howard Chipp at Mrs. John Forsyth's home on Albany avenue, back in March of 1915. He mentions, for instance, that John Vanderlyn's home had been situated at the corner of John and Fair street. Also, that often Vanderlyn was so hard pressed for money that at one time he offered to sell his world famous painting Marius at the Ruins of Carthage which had hung at the Paris exhibition to the city fathers of Kingston for only $200. They could not see it at the time so it went to San Francisco. Perhaps others have read more about this transaction.

Mr. Chipp also told about the old hotel which stood at the corner of Main and Clinton avenue, which had a high veranda. This was of peculiar interest, as on that porch was placed the "drafting wheel" at the time of the Civil War. Silent crowds gathered there with drawn and anxious faces, as they heard the names of their loved ones called out. Although details are not given, the item said in part, that "Mr. Chipp brought down the house with his anecdotes on how he was able to do excellent business during the days of the Centennial together with Randall Hoes." It seems Mr. Chipp found a barrel full of our famous old Ulster County Gazettes and they were as much a hit then as they are now, perhaps even more so.

Most of the old timers, and especially those living uptown around the new school should remember Dr. C. O. Sahler's Sanitarium on which grounds the school now is situated. I remember he used to have outdoor concerts in the summer. Perhaps others know more about it. According to an item in an Albany paper which was copied in the local press back in 1915, Dr. Charles Oliver Sahler was born in Ulster Park in 1854. He grew up on his father's farm in Kyserike. He graduated from Medical School of Columbia University in 1878 and went back to Kyserike to practice as a country doctor for 13 years. He was well liked and might have continued the good work but then decided to come to Kingston and open a sanitarium specializing in psycho-therepeutics. He was so learned in this subject, that he was asked to appear before various medical societies in this state and other nearby states.

In 1915 when the article was written his sanitarium consisted of a group of well constructed buildings like a complete community. It said he had his own lighting plant, telephone system and gym as well as his Turkish baths which were used by many Kingstonians. The population of his community varied from 200 to 300 according to the seasons. Besides running his well established sanitarium he also kept in close touch with his farm where he used up-to-date methods and was able to grow the largest hay crop ever seen in the town of Rochester (1913). He was active in grange work and of course his excellent home grown produce were served at his sanitarium to his patients and the staff. It is said his patients came from various states and Dominion of Canada as well. The management of his house was carefully supervised by his wife.

Laniel, Pleven Nurse Hurts in EDC Mob Protest

Paris, April 5 (AP)—Premier Joseph Laniel nursed sore shins today and Defense Minister Rene Pleven a slapped face after a yelling mob set an them in protest at the proposed European Defense Community (EDC).

The 100 or so rioters—identified as supporters of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, monarchists and possibly some Communists—broke up a solemn ceremony yesterday at the Arc de Triumphe honoring the defenders of Dien Bien Phu, the Communist-besieged fortress in Indochina.

With only a thin line of police and a handful of troops on hand, the demonstrators rushed the official party as it started to leave the ceremony.

Wedge Protects Premier

Somebody kicked Laniel in the shins. A police flying wedge got him to a police car which the rioters then tried to overturn. The straining policemen counterbalanced the pushing throng and the chauffeur finally rammed the car through the crowd.

Pleven was stranded under the arch alongside France's National Shrine, the Tomb of the Unkown Soldier and its perpetual flame honoring the nation's war dead.

Pale and seething, Pleven stood with the police in the center of the crowd until reinforcements finally arrived—almost half an hour later.

The rest of the crowd of about 1,000 watched the attacks with detachment and made no move to intervene. They dispersed after Pleven departed.

Seven Are Released

Police arrested seven of the demonstrators but later released all but one.

French official circles and most newspapers expressed deep concern over the unprecedented incident. It was the first time on record that a crowd molested a French Premier and a member of his cabinet.

More Details Given On CD Test in June

New York, April 5 (AP)—Lt. Gen. C. R. Huebner, director of the New York State Civil Defense Commission, yesterday made public additional details on the state's roll in the first national civil defense test, to be held around-the-clock June 14-15.

The nationwide test, to be coordinated by the Federal Civil Defense Administration, is designed to determine where deficiencies exist on all levels of civil defense planning.

The U. S. Air Defense Command, the Army and the National Guard will take part in the 24-hour continuous exercise.

Forty-two selected target cities in the United States mainland, Hawaii, Alaska and Puerto Rico will be supposed to have been hit by enemy atomic bombs of varying sizes.

Huebner gave this outline of plans to date for New York state's participation in the test:

Five of the theoretical A-bombs will be dropped in this state—three of them in New York city and one each in Buffalo and Schenectady.

The extent of probable damage will be evaluated by control centers of the "attacked" cities in the state, and the centers will simulate taking remedial action.

Dulles Urges Unity

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles urged free world nations today to rally behind French Union defenders in Indochina to teach Communists they cannot smash freedom by "massive, suicidal assaults." "The need of the hour is solidarity on the part of the free world," he said, "and notably on the part of all those nations which have a direct and vital stake in the freedom of the area. The governments of France and of the associated states ought not to feel that they stand apart in an hour of supreme trial."

Costello Trial Begins

New York, April 5 (AP)—Trial of gambler Frank Costello on income tax evasion charges began today after a federal judge disqualified himself from hearing the case. Judge Gregory F. Noonan stepped aside and was replaced by Judge John F. X. McGohey. Selection of a jury began immediately. Noonan disqualified himself on a motion of Leo Fennelly, defense counsel, who said the jurist "had a personal bias and prejudice against Costello which would render it impossible for him to receive a fair and impartial trial."

Rejects Soviet Bid

Paris, April 5 (AP) — France joined Britain and the United States last night in rejecting the Soviet Union's bid to join the North Atlantic Alliance. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, speaking on a radio program honoring NATO's fifth anniversary, said with Russian entrance the 14-nation group, "The Atlantic Alliance, whose single purpose is to protect us from a precise danger, would then lose all its significance and effectiveness."

Signs Charity Bill

Albany, April 5 (AP)—Gov. Dewey today signed legislation designed to stamp out charity racketeering that cost New York state residents an estimated 25 million dollars a year. Dewey said the measures, sponsored by a joint legislative committee that has been probing phony charities, would "curb the unprincipled without interfering with the great and philanthropic agencies which contribute so greatly to the society in which we live."

Man Held for Jury On Unlawful Entry

John J. Stossel, 42, who gave his address as the Minnewaska Hotel, was arrested at New Paltz on Saturday by Constable Joseph Thompson on a charge of unlawfully entering a building. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace I. C. Barnes of New Paltz, Stossel waived examination and was ordered held for grand jury action.

Justice Barnes said the information filed against Stossel accused him of entering the home of Mrs. Dorothy St. Cyr on Route 299 about one mile east of New Paltz village, by breaking a pane of glass. He was not accused of taking anything from the home.

Two Are Arrested On Charges of Forging $24 Check

Raymond Rogers, 21, and Joseph Hoag, Jr., 17, were arrested early Sunday on second degree forgery charges for the alleged forging of a $24 check given in payment for room rent at 113 Fair street.

The police report at 12:56 a. m., said the two were picked up by Officers Everett Emmick and Sheldon O'Rourke at 113 Fair street on the charges. City Judge Raymond J. Mino put the cases over until tomorrow when they were brought before him later today.

Informations filed on the two, indicated they had been living at the Holland Hotel before moving to the Fair street address, and that after arriving there they had paid $14 for the room and received $10 as change from the check.

Brownell to Give View

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell will propose further legislation to strengthen the nation's defenses against the "Communist conspiracy" in a nationwide radio-TV address Friday. Announcement that Brownell is going on the airways, at the request of President Eisenhower, was made at the White House by Senate Republican Leader Knowland (Calif.). Knowland had just come from the regular weekly conference Republican legislative leaders have with the President.

Howell Trial Put Off

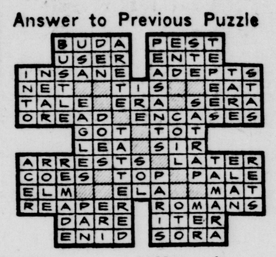

New York, April 5 (AP)—The trial of William Howell, 35, of Ridgefield, N. J., on a charge of first-degree murder in the slaying of Thomas Lewis, union leader, was postponed today until April 12. Bronx county Judge James M. Barrett delayed the trial because of the illness of James D. C. Murray, defense counsel. Lewis, president of Local 32-E, AFL Building Service Employes union, was shot last Aug. 28 outside the Bronx apartment building in which he lived.

Supreme Court Upholds National Banks on Savings

Washington, April 5 (AP) — The Supreme Court today struck down a section of New York state's banking law which prohibits national banks from using the word "savings" in their advertising.

Justice Jackson wrote the court's majority opinion, which was read in his absence by Justice Frankfurter. (Jackson is in a hospital recovering from a light heart attack). Justice Reed wrote a dissenting opinion, making the court's vote 8-1.

The Franklin National Bank of Franklin Square, N. Y., had attacked validity of the section in an appeal from a ruling by the New York State Court of Appeals. The state court upheld the section with a finding the ban had the reasonable purpose of protecting the public from misleading advertising.

Franklin national's appeal said Congress had expressly authorized national banks to receive and pay interest on savings deposits. The appeal was supported by the Justice Department in a brief, which said the ban gave state banks a substantial competitive advantage over national banks.

S[illegible]ggling Ring Smash[illegible]

Heidelberg, Germany, April 5 (AP)—The U. S. Army says sweeping raids yesterday in France and West Germany have smashed a 24-million-dollar a year smuggling ring. A spokesman said scores of persons—among them American civilians, Germans and stateless persons—were nabbed in the roundup by more than 800 American, German and French police in eight cities. More than $175,000 worth of contraband currency, jewels, gold, cigarettes and vehicles were confiscated.

Mother Has Second Child Born to Her In Three Weeks

Chelsea, Mass., April 5 (AP)—A mother with two complete organs of conception, who conceived separately in each one, today gave birth to her second child—a boy—three weeks after the first, a girl. Medical men described the pregnancies as extremely rare.

The mother is Mrs. Wilbur Chapman, 31, of Foxboro, Mass., attractive blonde wife of an aviation electrician stationed at the Weymouth Naval Air Station.

First Born March 15

Doctors at the U. S. Naval Hospital here announced the child was born at 4:19 a. m., (EST). They said he weighed 4 pounds 6½ ounces, and mother and child were "doing fine."

The first child, Susan Joy, was born at the hospital March 15. She weighed 3 pounds 14 ounces at birth.

The naval hospital announced the latest birth in this statement: "Mrs. Thelma Chapman, who delivered a normal, but small female infant from the left of two uteri on March 15, 1954, went into labor spontaneously on April 5, 1954, and after approximately two hours of uneventful labor, delivered a normal, living male infant from the right uterous at 4:19, weight four pounds, six and one-half ounces.

Mother, Infants Well

"The mother and both infants are doing well. It cannot be determined at this time whether both babies were conceived at the same time or not. The first baby is still at the hospital and has gained weight from 3 pounds, 14 ounces to 4 pounds, four ounces."

Since the babies came from different uteri they are not considered twins.

Asks 'A' Energy Control

28 Reds Arrested

Seoul, April 5 (AP)—South Korea's army counter-intelligence corps said today 28 Communist spies have been arrested in the past two months—20 of them in one espionage ring. The announcements did not report their fate.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

From time to time local residents give talks on local history and because of their personal research are able to add just a little more to the general information of Kingston. I found a reprint of part of a talk given by Howard Chipp at Mrs. John Forsyth's home on Albany avenue, back in March of 1915. He mentions, for instance, that John Vanderlyn's home had been situated at the corner of John and Fair street. Also, that often Vanderlyn was so hard pressed for money that at one time he offered to sell his world famous painting Marius at the Ruins of Carthage which had hung at the Paris exhibition to the city fathers of Kingston for only $200. They could not see it at the time so it went to San Francisco. Perhaps others have read more about this transaction.

Mr. Chipp also told about the old hotel which stood at the corner of Main and Clinton avenue, which had a high veranda. This was of peculiar interest, as on that porch was placed the "drafting wheel" at the time of the Civil War. Silent crowds gathered there with drawn and anxious faces, as they heard the names of their loved ones called out. Although details are not given, the item said in part, that "Mr. Chipp brought down the house with his anecdotes on how he was able to do excellent business during the days of the Centennial together with Randall Hoes." It seems Mr. Chipp found a barrel full of our famous old Ulster County Gazettes and they were as much a hit then as they are now, perhaps even more so.

Most of the old timers, and especially those living uptown around the new school should remember Dr. C. O. Sahler's Sanitarium on which grounds the school now is situated. I remember he used to have outdoor concerts in the summer. Perhaps others know more about it. According to an item in an Albany paper which was copied in the local press back in 1915, Dr. Charles Oliver Sahler was born in Ulster Park in 1854. He grew up on his father's farm in Kyserike. He graduated from Medical School of Columbia University in 1878 and went back to Kyserike to practice as a country doctor for 13 years. He was well liked and might have continued the good work but then decided to come to Kingston and open a sanitarium specializing in psycho-therepeutics. He was so learned in this subject, that he was asked to appear before various medical societies in this state and other nearby states.

In 1915 when the article was written his sanitarium consisted of a group of well constructed buildings like a complete community. It said he had his own lighting plant, telephone system and gym as well as his Turkish baths which were used by many Kingstonians. The population of his community varied from 200 to 300 according to the seasons. Besides running his well established sanitarium he also kept in close touch with his farm where he used up-to-date methods and was able to grow the largest hay crop ever seen in the town of Rochester (1913). He was active in grange work and of course his excellent home grown produce were served at his sanitarium to his patients and the staff. It is said his patients came from various states and Dominion of Canada as well. The management of his house was carefully supervised by his wife.

Laniel, Pleven Nurse Hurts in EDC Mob Protest

Paris, April 5 (AP)—Premier Joseph Laniel nursed sore shins today and Defense Minister Rene Pleven a slapped face after a yelling mob set an them in protest at the proposed European Defense Community (EDC).

The 100 or so rioters—identified as supporters of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, monarchists and possibly some Communists—broke up a solemn ceremony yesterday at the Arc de Triumphe honoring the defenders of Dien Bien Phu, the Communist-besieged fortress in Indochina.

With only a thin line of police and a handful of troops on hand, the demonstrators rushed the official party as it started to leave the ceremony.

Wedge Protects Premier

Somebody kicked Laniel in the shins. A police flying wedge got him to a police car which the rioters then tried to overturn. The straining policemen counterbalanced the pushing throng and the chauffeur finally rammed the car through the crowd.

Pleven was stranded under the arch alongside France's National Shrine, the Tomb of the Unkown Soldier and its perpetual flame honoring the nation's war dead.

Screaming "resign!" the crowd hurled stones which missed him. Someone slapped him twice. Another grabbed a handful of his hair.

Pale and seething, Pleven stood with the police in the center of the crowd until reinforcements finally arrived—almost half an hour later.

The rest of the crowd of about 1,000 watched the attacks with detachment and made no move to intervene. They dispersed after Pleven departed.

Seven Are Released

Police arrested seven of the demonstrators but later released all but one.

French official circles and most newspapers expressed deep concern over the unprecedented incident. It was the first time on record that a crowd molested a French Premier and a member of his cabinet.

More Details Given On CD Test in June

New York, April 5 (AP)—Lt. Gen. C. R. Huebner, director of the New York State Civil Defense Commission, yesterday made public additional details on the state's roll in the first national civil defense test, to be held around-the-clock June 14-15.

The nationwide test, to be coordinated by the Federal Civil Defense Administration, is designed to determine where deficiencies exist on all levels of civil defense planning.

The U. S. Air Defense Command, the Army and the National Guard will take part in the 24-hour continuous exercise.

Forty-two selected target cities in the United States mainland, Hawaii, Alaska and Puerto Rico will be supposed to have been hit by enemy atomic bombs of varying sizes.

Huebner gave this outline of plans to date for New York state's participation in the test:

Five of the theoretical A-bombs will be dropped in this state—three of them in New York city and one each in Buffalo and Schenectady.

The extent of probable damage will be evaluated by control centers of the "attacked" cities in the state, and the centers will simulate taking remedial action.

Dulles Urges Unity

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles urged free world nations today to rally behind French Union defenders in Indochina to teach Communists they cannot smash freedom by "massive, suicidal assaults." "The need of the hour is solidarity on the part of the free world," he said, "and notably on the part of all those nations which have a direct and vital stake in the freedom of the area. The governments of France and of the associated states ought not to feel that they stand apart in an hour of supreme trial."

Costello Trial Begins

New York, April 5 (AP)—Trial of gambler Frank Costello on income tax evasion charges began today after a federal judge disqualified himself from hearing the case. Judge Gregory F. Noonan stepped aside and was replaced by Judge John F. X. McGohey. Selection of a jury began immediately. Noonan disqualified himself on a motion of Leo Fennelly, defense counsel, who said the jurist "had a personal bias and prejudice against Costello which would render it impossible for him to receive a fair and impartial trial."

Rejects Soviet Bid

Paris, April 5 (AP) — France joined Britain and the United States last night in rejecting the Soviet Union's bid to join the North Atlantic Alliance. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, speaking on a radio program honoring NATO's fifth anniversary, said with Russian entrance the 14-nation group, "The Atlantic Alliance, whose single purpose is to protect us from a precise danger, would then lose all its significance and effectiveness."

Signs Charity Bill

Albany, April 5 (AP)—Gov. Dewey today signed legislation designed to stamp out charity racketeering that cost New York state residents an estimated 25 million dollars a year. Dewey said the measures, sponsored by a joint legislative committee that has been probing phony charities, would "curb the unprincipled without interfering with the great and philanthropic agencies which contribute so greatly to the society in which we live."

Man Held for Jury On Unlawful Entry

John J. Stossel, 42, who gave his address as the Minnewaska Hotel, was arrested at New Paltz on Saturday by Constable Joseph Thompson on a charge of unlawfully entering a building. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace I. C. Barnes of New Paltz, Stossel waived examination and was ordered held for grand jury action.

Justice Barnes said the information filed against Stossel accused him of entering the home of Mrs. Dorothy St. Cyr on Route 299 about one mile east of New Paltz village, by breaking a pane of glass. He was not accused of taking anything from the home.

Two Are Arrested On Charges of Forging $24 Check

Raymond Rogers, 21, and Joseph Hoag, Jr., 17, were arrested early Sunday on second degree forgery charges for the alleged forging of a $24 check given in payment for room rent at 113 Fair street.

The police report at 12:56 a. m., said the two were picked up by Officers Everett Emmick and Sheldon O'Rourke at 113 Fair street on the charges. City Judge Raymond J. Mino put the cases over until tomorrow when they were brought before him later today.

Informations filed on the two, indicated they had been living at the Holland Hotel before moving to the Fair street address, and that after arriving there they had paid $14 for the room and received $10 as change from the check.

Brownell to Give View

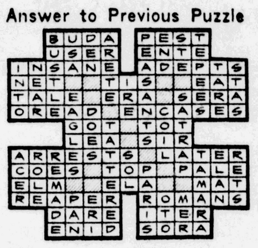

Washington, April 5 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell will propose further legislation to strengthen the nation's defenses against the "Communist conspiracy" in a nationwide radio-TV address Friday. Announcement that Brownell is going on the airways, at the request of President Eisenhower, was made at the White House by Senate Republican Leader Knowland (Calif.). Knowland had just come from the regular weekly conference Republican legislative leaders have with the President.

Howell Trial Put Off

New York, April 5 (AP)—The trial of William Howell, 35, of Ridgefield, N. J., on a charge of first-degree murder in the slaying of Thomas Lewis, union leader, was postponed today until April 12. Bronx county Judge James M. Barrett delayed the trial because of the illness of James D. C. Murray, defense counsel. Lewis, president of Local 32-E, AFL Building Service Employes union, was shot last Aug. 28 outside the Bronx apartment building in which he lived.

Supreme Court Upholds National Banks on Savings

Washington, April 5 (AP) — The Supreme Court today struck down a section of New York state's banking law which prohibits national banks from using the word "savings" in their advertising.

Justice Jackson wrote the court's majority opinion, which was read in his absence by Justice Frankfurter. (Jackson is in a hospital recovering from a light heart attack). Justice Reed wrote a dissenting opinion, making the court's vote 8-1.

The Franklin National Bank of Franklin Square, N. Y., had attacked validity of the section in an appeal from a ruling by the New York State Court of Appeals. The state court upheld the section with a finding the ban had the reasonable purpose of protecting the public from misleading advertising.

Franklin national's appeal said Congress had expressly authorized national banks to receive and pay interest on savings deposits. The appeal was supported by the Justice Department in a brief, which said the ban gave state banks a substantial competitive advantage over national banks.

S[illegible]ggling Ring Smash[illegible]

Heidelberg, Germany, April 5 (AP)—The U. S. Army says sweeping raids yesterday in France and West Germany have smashed a 24-million-dollar a year smuggling ring. A spokesman said scores of persons—among them American civilians, Germans and stateless persons—were nabbed in the roundup by more than 800 American, German and French police in eight cities. More than $175,000 worth of contraband currency, jewels, gold, cigarettes and vehicles were confiscated.

Mother Has Second Child Born to Her In Three Weeks

Chelsea, Mass., April 5 (AP)—A mother with two complete organs of conception, who conceived separately in each one, today gave birth to her second child—a boy—three weeks after the first, a girl. Medical men described the pregnancies as extremely rare.

The mother is Mrs. Wilbur Chapman, 31, of Foxboro, Mass., attractive blonde wife of an aviation electrician stationed at the Weymouth Naval Air Station.

First Born March 15

Doctors at the U. S. Naval Hospital here announced the child was born at 4:19 a. m., (EST). They said he weighed 4 pounds 6½ ounces, and mother and child were "doing fine."

The first child, Susan Joy, was born at the hospital March 15. She weighed 3 pounds 14 ounces at birth.

The naval hospital announced the latest birth in this statement:

"Mrs. Thelma Chapman, who delivered a normal, but small female infant from the left of two uteri on March 15, 1954, went into labor spontaneously on April 5, 1954, and after approximately two hours of uneventful labor, delivered a normal, living male infant from the right uterous at 4:19, weight four pounds, six and one-half ounces.

Mother, Infants Well

"The mother and both infants are doing well. It cannot be determined at this time whether both babies were conceived at the same time or not. The first baby is still at the hospital and has gained weight from 3 pounds, 14 ounces to 4 pounds, four ounces."

Since the babies came from different uteri they are not considered twins.

Asks 'A' Energy Control

"RAIN, RAIN, GO AWAY" . . .
but don't "come back some other day" until we've had a chance to get that roof repaired . . . . please!
This is the time of year when a lot of folks wish they'd had that old roof repaired or reroofed before the rains came!
It may be late, but not TOO late! We can quickly make an expert inspection — without obligation or charge — and tell you what needs to be done, what it will cost, how to finance the job . . . but you have to start the process by letting us know where to send our roofing inspector!
